A major winter storm watch is in effect for the Chicago area today. The major brunt of the storm is expected to hit by nightfall, and could bring 6 inches to "much more" by Thursday morning. The snow may let up by 2 p.m. Thursday, but will be followed by another storm Friday.

County housing plan for village a possibility

by JOE SWICKARD

Arlington Heights could have a housing assistance plan imposed on it through Cook County if the village does not develop a plan of its own. Officials, who are studying whether to apply for a $295,000 federal grant, were told of such a possibility by village administration Tuesday night.

The finance committee of the village board, conducting its first public hearing on whether to apply for the funds under the Community Development Act, was told by James Holywort, administrative aide, that even should the village turn down the funds through a fear of "federal strings," a housing plan could be forced upon the village by the county housing authority.

THE FEAR OF federal requirements attached to the funds led to the village board's rejection of the money last year.

The committee will ask Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel for an opinion on the housing question and other federal obligations attached to the funds.

Trustee Richard Durava, a committee member, called for Siegel's opinion saying, "We don't want to decide to build a pig farm on the south end of town and then have somebody tell us we can't do it."

Durava was apparently referring to requests made last year to use part of the funds to help build a model farm in conjunction with the park district.

Only about 20 people attended the hearing in marked contrast to last year's hearing conducted before overflow crowds in the village board room.

Trustee Frank Palmatier, committee chairman, tried to defuse the housing question at the outset of the hearings. He said the money the village is considering applying for "cannot and will not be used for low-and moderate-income housing."

Instead, Palmatier directed the hearings toward discussion of redevelopment of the central business district. He said a revitalization of the business district would be "one of the most meritorious uses" of the money.

BANKER HAROLD HARVEY, representing the Chamber of Commerce, said an improved downtown would benefit the entire village. He said it would help increase the business district's share of the tax burden from its present 1.3 per cent.

Former Village Pres. Ralph Clarbour, speaking as "a citizen of Arlington Heights," told the committee the money should be sent back to the federal government to help reduce the national deficit.

He said returning the money would be a "gesture" to Washington that Arlington Heights would rather see a balanced federal budget and leave local development to the local community.

Palmatier said that money not used by the village goes to other towns and agencies, such as Cook County. "The policy is to disperse the money to areas where the need is shown," he said.

Trustee Madeline Schroeder said the county used such money last year to pay for sidewalks in Prospect Heights, improve the Palatine Township Cemetery and to help pay for Palatine's master plan.

A second hearing on the grant will be held Dec. 16, before a recommendation is made to full village board.

Should the moribund be kept alive?

by United Press International

Three cases Tuesday underlined the agonizing decisions involved in keeping moribund humans alive.

- On Long Island, N. Y., the death of a girl unplugged from a respirator is called homicide and her mother and aunt are fingerprinted.
- In Hilo, Hawaii, a young mother of two is declared legally dead and ordered removed from the machine.
- In Naples, Fla., a high school football player dies of brain injuries before doctors can unplug his respirator.

In N. Y., the mother of 16-year-old Maryjane Dahl said Tuesday she and her sister voluntarily submitted to fingerprinting by Nassau County police "because we are not criminals."

"BUT EVERYBODY IS treating us like we are," said Mrs. Janet Sarvent, Maryjane's mother. Then, on the verge of tears and with her voice breaking, she added: "All I did was lose my only child."

Nassau County Medical Examiner Leslie Lukash has stated that Maryjane, who was terminally ill, died in Nassau Hospital in Mineola Nov. 2 after someone pulled the plug on the repirator which was keeping her alive. He ruled homicide in the case.

Mrs. Sarvent and her sister, Mrs. Jane Sheehan had visited the girl on the night of her death.

In court Tuesday, Sidney Sibey, the attorney for the two women, told Judge Raymond L. Wilkes he would not contest a show-cause order, obtained by police to require the fingerprinting.

But he insisted a portion of a police affidavit be stricken from the show-cause order. It stated that the women "denied touching or manipulating the respirator machine."

SIBEN SAID BOTH women were at the girl's bedside almost constantly during the week before her death.

"There is no question that they touched the respirator machine, and there is no question that they left

Walker hints suit to fight hike in state aid

by KATHERINE BOYCE

The Illinois Board of Education may be sued by Gov. Daniel Walker for its decision Tuesday to increase monthly state-aid payments above the amount appropriated to the Illinois General Assembly.

In an 11-to-3 vote, board members decided to distribute state aid to schools monthly, in an amount equal to one-twelfth of the annual aid they would receive from the state-aid formula.

Walker cut the legislature's school appropriations by $81 million and last week the Senate refused to override his veto. Walker has insisted the state pay the school districts's monthly aid in an amount equal to one twelfth of the funds appropriated.

The state board's decision to pay according to the formula rather than the appropriation means local schools will receive larger monthly payments, but funds will run out before the end of the fiscal year. The state's last payment, next June, may be cut between $60 and $70 million if the General Assembly does not pass a supplemental appropriation next spring.

ILLINOIS SCHOOL Supt. Joseph Cronin has said he will ask the legislature for more school aid next spring, but he agreed Tuesday that the state board "can hold out no promise of a supplementary appropriation" to local school districts.

Walker's response to the state board's action Tuesday was vehement.

"We cannot and will not tolerate the defiance by the appointed board of education of the expressed will of the elected representatives of the people." He said every step will be taken "to prevent the board from continuing on this reckless and irresponsible course of action," and added to the closing of schools long before the school year ends."

According to an aide in the Governor's office, Walker seriously is considering legal action against the board for its refusal to pay state aid according to the legislature's appropriation. Walker has said he will veto any supplemental appropriation passed by the legislature next spring.

The board's decision does not mean it will be spending more money on education than appropriated. It is simply one method of paying state aid. Board members argued Tuesday that payment according to the formula means schools will not have to borrow money until aid runs out at the end of the year. If schools are paid according to the appropriation, they may have to borrow earlier and spend more in interest as a result.

THE STATE has dispersed aid on the formula basis for several years and the legislature has often appropriated supplemental funds in the spring. In July the state board ended that practice when it agreed to pay according to the appropriation. Monday's vote reversed that decision.

Julia Dempsey legal adviser to the state office of education, told board members Monday its decision in July was incorrect because the board has no authority to pro-rate funds based

Dem dilemma: too many candidates

Dixon still wants to be governor

State Treasurer Alan Dixon Tuesday reaffirmed his plan to run for governor unless he can obtain the Democratic Party's nomination for secretary of state.

Dixon's action left the Democratic State Central Committee with two top candidates to oppose Gov. Daniel Walker in the March primary. Sec. of State Michael Howlett Tuesday also an nounced that he was seeking the gubernatorial post.

Howlett's announcement ended several months of private deliberations and several weeks of public speculation. He told the 24-member committee he is seeking the governor's office because the "people of Illinois want reasonable discussion, not confrontation; workable progress, not political excuses; responsible leadership, not gamesmanship.

At the same time Walker had a press conference in a room adjacent to the slatemakers at the St. Nicholas Hotel, Springfield, and branded the session a "road show with a predetermined outcome," Walker has refused to appear before the slatemakers, stating that they are nothing more than "puppets for Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley."

SEVERAL MEMBERS of the committee emerged from the session admitting there was a clouded situation because of Dixon but indicated the problem could be eased if Lt. Gov. Neil Hartigan would drop his plans to run for secretary of state.

"He jumped into it very quickly and he could jump out just as fast," one committee member said. Hartigan's candidacy reportedly has the blessing of Mayor Richard J. Daley, who has the final say on who is slated by the party.

Howlett has indicated a preference for having Dixon running for lieutenant governor. Dixon from downstate Belleville, would break up the bloc of having two Irish-Catholics, Howlett and Hartigan, at the top of the ticket.

Dixon admitted that his decision to accept only the secretary of state's post as a condition for withdrawing from the governor's race has put him "between a rock and a hard place."

"ANYTHING LESS would be a lateral move or demotion," he said. Dixon has served as treasurer since 1970. He has two years remaining in his current term. The secretary of state's post is considered more powerful because it controls 3,600 jobs throughout Illinois.

Othercandidates to appear before the committee included State Rep. Daniel Pierce, D - Highland Park, who is the state central committeeman for the 12th Congressional District. Pierce said he wanted to be slated for either attorney general or comptroller. Pierce had suggested he would like to run for governor, but dropped them when the Howlett-Dixon dilemma developed.

Donald Eslick, Northfield Township Democratic Committee, also asked to be slated for comptroller. Eslick is an assistant superintendent in the Illinois Office of Education and a former aide to Hartigan.

No final decision on who will be slated for the state post by the party will be made until after the State committee meets Monday with Daley and the members of the Cook County Democratic Central Committee in the LaSalle Hotel.

Dems hold off on Crane opponent

by STEVE BROWN

Three candidates who are seeking the Democratic nomination for the 12th District Congressional seat met Monday night with local township committeemen, but no endorsement recommendation was made.

Edward Frank, Hoffman Estates, a 1972 candidate against U.S. Rep Philip Crane, R-12th; Robert Morgan, Deerfield, and Marc Seidler, Highland Park, all said they would be interested in running against Crane if they had the party's backing.

Seidler, who had circulated petitions to run against State's Atty. Jack Hougasian of Lake County, said he has not made a firm decision to run for Congress, but probably would enter the race if endorsed.

WHILE THE three candidates' presenation was open to the public, Democratic State Central Committeeman Daniel Pierce, a state representative from Highland Park, and representatives from Lake County and Schaumburg, Elk Grove, Wheeling, Hanover, Palatine and Barrington townships agreed to debate which candidate they would select in private.

Pierce said that after about 30 minutes of discussion no decision was made. He said the group would meet Monday during the Democratic State Central Committee slatemaking session in Chicago.

Frank noted that he received about 30 per cent of the vote in his 1972 campaign against Crane. He indicated that he did not believe any "first time" candidate would be able to beat the incumbent Republican.

All three expressed concern about fundraising. New federal elections law limit candidates to spending $70,000 in congressional elections plus fund-raising costs.

Frank is a manufacturer's representative, Morgan works as consulting engineer and Seidler is an attorney with a Chicago law firm. He said he decided not to enter the Lake County State's Attorney's race because an attorney with a practice in Waukegan entered the campaign.

on the appropriation. The board's only option is to disperse aid according to the formula, she said.

By prorating according to the formula schools will receive an additional $2.5 million per month beginning in January. They have been paid about $97.75 million per month according to the appropriation.

Leonard Schaeffer, Walker's budget director, warned the board its action to increase monthly aid payments may place the state in severe financial trouble. "State payrolls, public aid payments could be delayed," he said.

In opposing the board's action board member Frederick Palmer said "schools are not the only entity in the state." Board member Donald Truitt of Palatine, who also voted against the board, said "the answer to education is not an inexhaustable supply of money." Reminding the board of the financial problems of New York City, he said, "I'm less concerned with what we can legally do and what we in clear conscience should do."

on the appropriation. The board's only option is to disperse aid according to the formula, she said.

By prorating according to the formula schools will receive an additional $2.5 million per month beginning in January. They have been paid about $97.75 million per month according to the appropriation.

Leonard Schaeffer, Walker's budget director, warned the board its action to increase monthly aid payments may place the state in severe financial trouble. "State payrolls, public aid payments could be delayed," he said.

In opposing the board's action board member Frederick Palmer said "schools are not the only entity in the state." Board member Donald Truitt of Palatine, who also voted against the board, said "the answer to education is not an inexhaustable supply of money." Reminding the board of the financial problems of New York City, he said, "I'm less concerned with what we can legally do and what we in clear conscience should do."

Report some drivers needlessly pay for repairs

Companies pick up bill for 'persistent' complainers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Millions of motorists in the United States and Canada are needlessly paying to have their cars fixed because Ford and General Motors refuse to admit they will pay for certain repairs, the Center for Auto Safety said Tuesday.

The problems range from rusting in certain Fords, especially the 1972 Pinto, to engine overheating in the 1971 through 1974 Chevrolet Vega, the group said. It urged the government to require the automakers to disclose their programs for making such repairs.

As it now stands, the center said, only the "most persistent and if you will, obnoxious" car owners who go beyond the dealer and complain loudly to the district manager get the companies to pick up the bill.

Ford said it does indeed reimburse its dealers for certain repairs after warranties have expired "to enable its dealers to maintain customer goodwill." But it said such programs are beyond any obligation it has under the 12-month, 12,000-mile warranty.

"We fail to understand how the Center can fault the company for voluntarily providing customers benefits which are not required under terms of the warranty," said J. A. Kordick, parts and service programs manager of Ford.

GM had no immediate comment.

The Center, which was founded by Ralph Nader but which is now privately financed, said it knew of at least 34 "secret warranty" programs, 33 of them operated by Ford.

Some of the repairs Ford was or is allegedly making, according to a document dated January, 1974, include mismatch and poor paint application in all models except Ford and Mercury; windshield fogging, leaks and compressor failures in all models; poor fits. dents. and rough finish in the sheet metal used in the Ford, Mercury, Mark IV, Lincoln, Mustang, Comet and Montego; and erratic shifting on all models.

The Center filed the documents allegedly pertaining to the programs with the Federal Trade Commission and urged consumers to write the FTC to obtain copies before taking the matter to a small claims court — if the dealer does not offer to make the repairs.

It also said consumers should attempt to write in their own warranty provision when buying a car to require the seller to offer extended protection for seven years on such defects regardless of mileage involved.

Phillippe Edmonston, of the Automobile Protection Association of Montreal, said the rusting problem among Fords sold in Canada is so severe the cars "look like a piece of Swiss cheese."

"Ford may have made the first biodegradable car," he said. "You start with a Torino and wind up with a Pinto."

Mid-November auto sales up 33%

DETROIT (UPI) — The four U.S. automakers Tuesday reported mid-November sales shot up 33 per cent over a year ago when a sharp plunge led to the idling of close to 200,000 workers just before Thanksgiving.

With all four companies sharing in the boost, sales hit 252,942 cars for the fifth consecutive period in which sales topped a year-ago level. American Motors reported a 41 per cent jump, General Motors 36 per cent, Chrysler 30 per cent and Ford 28 per cent.

But even with the strengthening sales since the introduction of the 1976 models in October industry executives and alysists sia it would be some time before the industry has fully recovered from its two-year slump — the longest and deepest since the Great Depression.

"Nobody is claiming any big breakthroughs, just more of the hard increases of the past few months," one analyst said. "Nobody expects to reach the 1972 and 1973 record levels for at least another two years."

The strong Nov. 11-20 sales were off 13 per cent from 1973, just after the start of the Arab oil embargo that triggered the slump, and 18 per cent below the record for the period in 1971.

But five consecutive periods with sales topping the year-ago levels has prompted both Ford and GM to add cars to their production plans. All the companies have been trying to match their production schedules to actual sales and avoid the huge backlog that forced the shutdowns last year.

In the Thanksgiving week last year, seven of the industry's 57 car and truck plants were closed, a figure that rose to 18 in the week after Thanksgiving.

Just one plant is partially down this week and layoffs have dropped below 63,000 hourly workers, compared with more than 300,000 off the job in the depths of the slump during the past winter.

Pro-government forces crush rebellion in Lisbon

LISBON, Portugal (UPI) — Left-wing troops rebelled against Portugal's Socialist-led government Tuesday but loyalist commandos arrested the rebel leader and, in a nearly bloodless action, recaptured two of the four airbases seized by the insurgents.

Diplomatic sources said the other two bases were about to be retaken.

The government forces also recaptured radio and television stations taken over earlier in the day by rebellious troops demanding the ouster of the sixta provisional government.

But the government still lacked complete control of the capital. Leftist crowds gathered at bases held by rebel units and mutinous military police units cruised the streets of Lisbon with heavy machine guns set up on flatbed trucks.

President Francisco da Costa Gomes put the Lisbon military district under a form of martial law and imposed a mid-night-to-dawn curfew.

The only casualty reported in the day-old rebellion was a leftist demonstrator who was wounded when a commando fired shots into the ground to disperse a crowd near the television transmitters the commandos captured from rebellious paratroopers.

The last broadcasting station to fall was the pro-Communist Radio Club. It went off the air at 10:20 p.m. 4:20 p.m. EST, then returned to the air almost immediately with programs broadcast by the station's pro-government studios in the northern city of Oporto.

Government officials said the rebel paratroopers occupying Monte Real airbase 88 miles north of Lisbon and the air force headquarters in suburban Monsanto surrendered without a fight.

But the pro-government commandos backed by 20 armored cars who invaded Monsanto had to fire numerous volleys into the air to disperse leftist crowds objecting to their action.

Officials said more than 200 rebel paratroopers were disarmed and arrested at Monsanto and that a group of senior officers, including assistant air force chief Gen. Jose Pinto Freire, held prisoner by the rebels were freed unharmed.

"What could we do against 20 armored cars?" one rebel paratrooper said. "It would have been senselss to resist."

Loyalist air forct commanders sent warplanes flying low over Lisbon to back up the surrender ultimatum to the rebels.

Government spokesmen said Monte Real also was regained without any violence. The rebels there gave up after pro-government demonstrators surrounded the base.

President Francisco da Costa Gomes declared a state of emergency and took personal command of the loyalist troops.

No fuel shortages seen in Illinois

by United Press International

There will be enough heat this winter to go around for all Illinois residents relying on gas and probably enough for those who burn oil, according to suppliers of both fuels.

The picture was not entirely rosy, a UPI survey showed. Some gas users will likely pay more than the usual price increases for their fuel, and two major oil companies, Amoco and Shell, said another Arab oil embargo could cause hardship. Otherwise both contend there is enough oil available and forthcoming to keep the cold outdoors.

Shell hedged slightly, noting that an extremely severe winter might pose a problem, but indicated it would have to be worse than any in recent years.

By far the main heating fuel for Illinoisans is natural gas, used by possibly 80 per cent of state residents. The rest depend on synthetic natural gas (SNG), oil or electricity.

The state's largest gas supplier, Northern Illinois Gas Co. has 1.28 million customers in an area covering roughly the northern third of the state, except metropolitan Chicago and a portion in the extreme northeast corner. About 1.7 million of these are residential; the rest, commercial and industrial.

Peoples Gas Co. serves 80 per cent of the 1.1 million dwellings in Chicago and an adjacent six-county area. Oil is burned in 11 per cent, coal in 3 per cent, electricity provides the heat in 2 per cent. The rest use combinations of the others.

Spokesmen for Peoples' and NI expect no difficulty in meeting their contractual obligations and both said the mild fall, though helpful in the long run, was not a factor in determining availability for this season.

The Central Illinois Light Co. of Peoria was hit with a 36 per cent cutback in natural gas compared with the amount it received last winter from Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Co. because of dwindling reserves at Panhandle.

"Our storage fields were 42 per cent below last year going into the cold months," a spokesman at CILC said, "but we purchased SNG from Peoples and Northern Illinois." The company serves 175,000 customers in the Peoria area, Springfield and Lincoln, and 90 per cent of its customers are residential.

Since SNG costs about five times as much as natural gas, CILC customers can expect bigger gas bills this winter.

Central Illinois Public Service Co. of Springfield provides gas for home heat to many portions of the southern half of Illinois. All of its 124,000 residential customers can expect enough natural gas for the harshest of winters, a spokesman said. The company has not added new heating customers since 1971, though it has added domestic cooking and water heating customers.

If shortages arise anywhere in the state, top priority goes to dwellings. Commercial and industrial customers, however, are prepared in cases of emergency to switch to SNG, oil, electricity or combinations of each.

"But they did not touch the controls or the plug on the machine, and it is important to make this differentiation," Siben told Judge Wilkes.

In Hilo, Hawaii, the body of Alice Cameron lay in the Hilo Hospital morgue Tuesday, her two-week coma ended by a judge's decision that the 27-year-old woman was clinically dead and should be removed from a life-sustaining respirator.

Citing five doctors' determinations that the mother of two was already dead because of the absence of brain activity, Circuit Court Judge Shunichi Kimura Monday ordered her respirator shut off and doctors at Hilo Hospital complied.

The mother of two children was brought to the hospital Nov. 12, in a coma said to have been caused by a cocaine overdose.

In Naples, Fla., Peter Staver, 18, a high school football player who suffered a brain injury last week died Monday night a short time before doctors could follow his parents' orders and disconnect his life support system.

Young Staver had been kept alive with a respirator and intravenous feeding and medication since suffering the concussion. Neurologist Dr. Francis Hussey said Staver was clinically dead and in a "deep, irreversible comatose state" when the youth arrived at the hospital.

"We agreed from the start that we didn't want to prolong his life, Like you read so much in the papers," said Mrs. Isabel Staver, mother of the youth.

"Pete wouldn't have wanted that, and neither did his family and friends," she said. Mrs. Staver is a nurse.

• Carl Heart, a 10-year-old Wichita, Kan. boy dying of leukemia, will be released from St. Francis Hospital today to spend Thanksgiving with his family. Carl was readmitted to the hospital last week, hours after he returned from his dream trip to Disneyland. Carl also met movie star John Wayne while in California.

• Actor Tommy Rettig, who played Lassie's master in the popular 1950s television series about a boy and his dog, pleaded innocent this week to charges of smuggling cocaine into the United States from Peru. Rettig, 38, now free on bail, was arrested last April at his home in Morro Bay, Calif. by federal narcotics agents who said he brought liquid cocaine in a liquor bottle on a commercial airline flight.

Peoples Gas Co. serves 80 per cent of the 1.1 million dwellings in Chicago and an adjacent six-county area. Oil is burned in 11 per cent, coal in 3 per cent, electricity provides the heat in 2 per cent. The rest use combinations of the others.

Spokesmen for Peoples' and NI expect no difficulty in meeting their contractual obligations and both said the mild fall, though helpful in the long run, was not a factor in determining availability for this season.

The Central Illinois Light Co. of Peoria was hit with a 36 per cent cutback in natural gas compared with the amount it received last winter from Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Co. because of dwindling reserves at Panhandle.

"Our storage fields were 42 per cent below last year going into the cold months," a spokesman at CILC said, "but we purchased SNG from Peoples and Northern Illinois." The company serves 175,000 customers in the Peoria area, Springfield and Lincoln, and 90 per cent of its customers are residential.

Since SNG costs about five times as much as natural gas, CILC customers can expect bigger gas bills this winter.

Central Illinois Public Service Co. of Springfield provides gas for home heat to many portions of the southern half of Illinois. All of its 124,000 residential customers can expect enough natural gas for the harshest of winters, a spokesman said. The company has not added new heating customers since 1971, though it has added domestic cooking and water heating customers.

If shortages arise anywhere in the state, top priority goes to dwellings. Commercial and industrial customers, however, are prepared in cases of emergency to switch to SNG, oil, electricity or combinations of each.

"But they did not touch the controls or the plug on the machine, and it is important to make this differentiation," Siben told Judge Wilkes.

In Hilo, Hawaii, the body of Alice Cameron lay in the Hilo Hospital morgue Tuesday, her two-week coma ended by a judge's decision that the 27-year-old woman was clinically dead and should be removed from a life-sustaining respirator.

Citing five doctors' determinations that the mother of two was already dead because of the absence of brain activity, Circuit Court Judge Shunichi Kimura Monday ordered her respirator shut off and doctors at Hilo Hospital complied.

The mother of two children was brought to the hospital Nov. 12, in a coma said to have been caused by a cocaine overdose.

In Naples, Fla., Peter Staver, 18, a high school football player who suffered a brain injury last week died Monday night a short time before doctors could follow his parents' orders and disconnect his life support system.

Young Staver had been kept alive with a respirator and intravenous feeding and medication since suffering the concussion. Neurologist Dr. Francis Hussey said Staver was clinically dead and in a "deep, irreversible comatose state" when the youth arrived at the hospital.

"We agreed from the start that we didn't want to prolong his life, Like you read so much in the papers," said Mrs. Isabel Staver, mother of the youth.

"Pete wouldn't have wanted that, and neither did his family and friends," she said. Mrs. Staver is a nurse.

Thomas may reopen by end of week

Thomas Street near Hersey High School may be open to traffic by the end of this week, Village Engineer Allen Sander said Friday.

Police have reported several accidents from cars attempting to use the street, which has been closed during construction of a relief sewer for the Ivy Hill Subdivision.

The sewer work on Thomas is completed, Sander said. If the Metropolitan Sanitary District accepts the construction work, and if the weather is satisfactory, the street can be repaved within several days, he said.

Accidents on the street have been caused by drivers either ignoring or removing barricades.

Access to the school on Waterman Road has remained open during the construction and should be used by persons driving to and from the school, he said.

Memorial ceremony for Mrs. Daniels

A memorial ceremony was held recently in tribute to the late Mrs. Milton (Daisy) Paddock Daniels, founding member of the Eli Skinner Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The ceremony at Randhill Park Cemetery, Palatine Township, was led by Mrs. Stanley Harmer, chaplain of the chapter, and was attended by several prominent area residents.

Mrs. Daniels, author of "Prairieville, USA," a story of the history of the Village of Arlington Heights, died in December 1974, at the age of 86. Her book is being donated to the DAR Genealogical Library in Washington D.C.

WILLIAM NELSON, an artist, holds a handmade star blanket given to him by the Sioux Indians. He is the first white man to receive the honor. He was honored for his portrayal of Indian life.

'Wamblee' wows kids and squelches Indian myth

by PAM BIGFORD

They called him "Wamblee Wowa" — eagle painter.

Willie Nelson, a Prospect Heights artist, spent three months living with and painting scenes of the Sioux Indians in South Dakota

Last week he visited Betsy Ross School, which his two daughters attend, and served a double purpose: squelching the myth of the angry Indian and furthering career education by explaining what it is like to be an artist.

"BEFORE THE WHITE man came to this country there were just Indians," he told the children.

"No cowboys?" asked one little boy in amazement.

"No cowboys," Nelson said firmly. "Then the white man came and sometimes the Indians would fight to keep their land. But today the Indians do not want to fight. It's not like the movies. They are friendly and nice."

Nelson told the children about living in houses made of adobe clay and how buffalo meat used to be a main staple of the Indian diet. He told them Indian children often have the job of herding sheep, and that his friend the medicine man, Lame Deer, came to visit him at his house in Prospect Heights.

Nelson's first contact with Indians was in 1972 when he was invited to illustrate the final performance of the Oglala Sioux Indian sun dance ceremonies held annually near Wounded Knee, S.D.

TWENTY-ONE watercolor art works were inspired by that visit, from which a limited set of lithographs was made. For that series, Nelson was honored at a reception in Washington by the Senate and House Indian Affairs Committees.

Gone are the romantic days of the lonely artist painting his dreams on the banks of the Seine and waiting for glory to seize him.

Today's artist, like Nelson, has an agent, and treats his art as a business. Agents, Nelson said, are always on the lookout for new opportunities for their clients.

Nelson's opportunity to paint the Sioux ceremony came from an invitation from the South Dakota Cultural Affairs Commission. Recently, he was chosen as the official artist for the United States at the 1976 Olympics. And a conglomerate of American history events done in oils has a good chance of hanging permanently in the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D.C.

"IS IT HARD to be an artist?" asked one child. "Do you like it?" asked another.

"I love it," Nelson said, "but sometimes it is hard. This is what I do every time I start a painting," he said, picking up a piece of charcoal and drawing a pumpkin. "I sketch it out so I know where everything goes."

The children squirmed to sit higher in their seats as Nelson mixed red and yellow paints on his palette to paint his pumpkin orange.

"Are there any more questions?" he asked.

"My brother has a little bit of Indian in him," one boy announced.

"That's very interesting," Nelson said. "You should be very proud of that."

Two men get probation in kidnap, beating case

Two Arlington Heights men were placed on probation Tuesday after pleading guilty in Evanston branch of Circuit Court to abducting and beating an Elk Grove Village man in September.

Guy Crawford, 18, of 2165 S. Tonne Dr., was placed on four years probation after pleading guilty to aggravated battery and unlawful restraint. Mark Beatty, 24, of the same address, received a three-year probation sentence after pleading guilty to unlawful restraint, auto theft and criminal damage to property.

The two were arrested Sept. 4 in connection with the abduction of James W. Case, 20, of 938A Jefferson Sq., Elk Grove Village.

Case told police two men forced him to leave a friend's house in Glenview and drove him to the Arlington Heights apartment. There he was beaten with a billy club and kept captive for about seven hours.

Case escaped from the apartment and found a ride to the Elk Grove Village police station. Information was relayed to Arlington Heights police, and Case was taken to Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village.

Aggravated kidnaping charges against the pair were dropped as well as an aggravated battery charge against Beatty. Judge Arthur Sullivan sentenced the men.

Political counter-revolution

Grassroots party seeks support

by JOE SWICKARD

The Conservative Caucus would have a hard time finding a more receptive climate than the 12th Congressional District, and that might be a problem.

"We have such an outstanding representative in Phil Crane. If we had a liberal-radical — well, it would be much easier if people were dissatisfied," said Donald Tetzlaff, the caucus' district director.

The immediate aim of the Conservative Caucus Inc. is to establish grassroots organizations of a strong conservative bent in each of the country's 435 congressional districts.

"OUR GOAL IS a complete political counter-revolution in America — taking power away from bureaucrats and judges, returning it to the individual citizen, reducing the size of the public sector, and assuring self-determination for our nation, as well as for each person in it," a press release from the local group's steering committee states.

The movement, founded last fall in Falls Church, Va., is an embodiment of rock-ribbed conservatism and decentralization of power.

The Conservative Cuacus Inc., the parent organization with headquarters in Falls Church, does not dictate policy or dogma to the local groups. Rather, it provides mailing lists of possible supporters, an informational service and a training center.

The local groups are free to establish their own goals, positions, policies and priorities. An example of this is the local group's name, Independent Conservative Party.

THE GROUP decided on the term, "party," because "caucus" has been adopted by the long-standing Arlington Heights political organization, Tetzlaff, a former Wheeling Township Republican worker, said.

The movement's springboard is a growing dissatisfaction with increasing taxes and what is perceived as unnecessary meddling by federal agencies in businesses, schools and personal life, said Tetzlaff and National Director Howard Phillips.

Phillips made his name in the administration of Richard Nixon as head of the Office of Economic Opportunity, where he set about dismantling as much of the bureaucracy as he could. He eventually stepped down amidst criticism he was using an ax when a scalpel was called for.

"What we want is a grassroots citizens' coalition lobby," Phillips said. "We want to make sure the general interests can counter the well-organized special interest groups in Washington."

TETZLAFF SAID the economy is the best recruiter the organization has. Rising inflation is cutting across party labels, bringing more and more people into line with the conservative position, he said.

Donald Tetzlaff

"Inflation is recruiting people faster than anything else. Nobody has any money left by the time you pay your gas bill, your power bill, your house and car payment. And you don't have money to buy food," Tetzlaff said.

He said immediate success for the organization is not in the cards. But, he said, the short-term setbacks will build for the future.

"The federal budget is still growing. Even if no new programs are started, the existing ones have so much built in that it'll still be a whopper," he said.

NOT ALL THE issues are economic, however. A tentative local constitution urges a national supremacy over the globe and in space, "right to life," a ban on forced busing and a no-nonsense law enforcement policy.

The national caucus boasts a membership of more than 70,000, with no upward limit seen. It points to the fact that 38 per cent of eligible voters went to the polls in 1974 and say a new majority can be welded from the dissatisfied voters and the stay-at-homes.

"It is not our object to elect a particular person President or merely to take control of a political party," the local caucus said. "Our goal is a complete political counterrevolution in America."

Conservative Party meet Dec. 13

The Independent Conservative Party, the local chapter of the Conservative Caucus Inc., will hold an organizational meeting Dec. 13, at the Plum Grove Club, Palatine.

The stated purpose of the group is to bring together politically conservative voters in the 12th Congressional District to form a citizens' lobbying group. The national group hopes to establish chapters in the 435 congressional districts, although the local organizations will be autonomous.

The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. at the club, 400 Park, Palatine. For more information, contact Donald Tetzlaff, district director, at 359-4910 or 398-5377.

Notice Re: Thanksgiving Service

Thanksgiving is a holiday for our men, one of 6 during the year on which, per our contract, no garbage service is provided and no credit given.

As most residents know, these 6 holiday-service omissions are equalized among our 3 routes, so that no route receives more than 2 during the normal year. To provide this equal treatment, for some holidays we must adjust our pick-up schedule substantially.

Accordingly, for the Thanksgiving holiday, we must service Thursday routes on Friday, and Friday routes on Saturday. Therefore, the next service for Wednesday/Saturday routes, after Wednesday, Nov. 26 will be on Wednesday, Dec. 3.

Under our equalization system, the next holiday-service omission for Wed/Sat routes will not occur until next Labor Day.

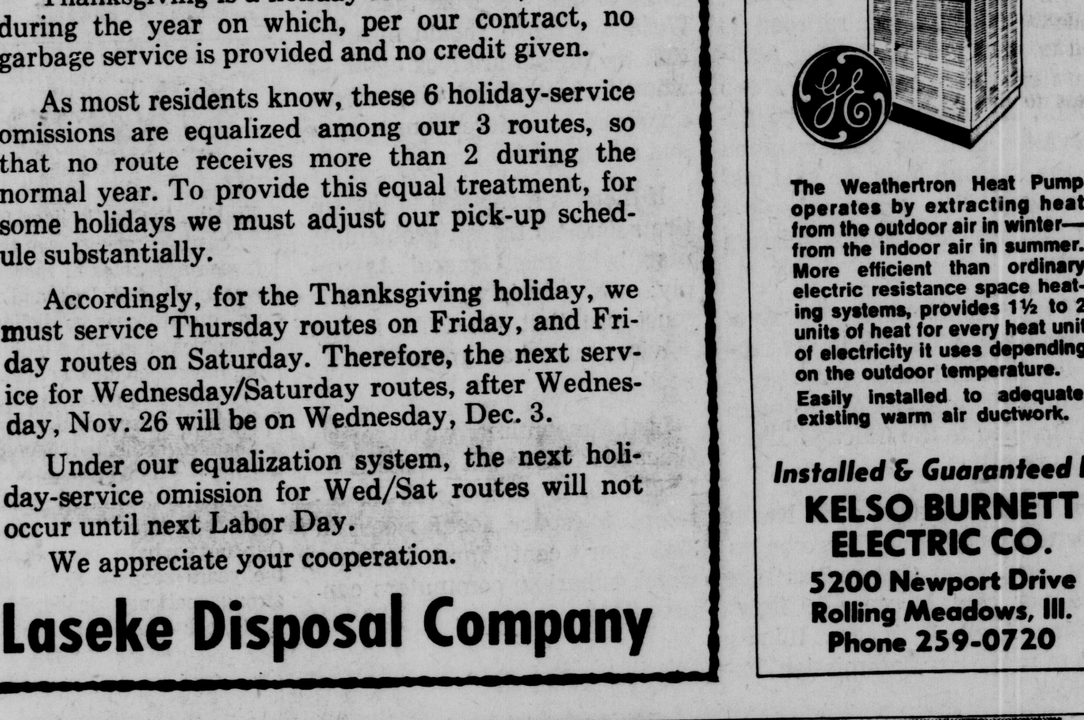
THE HEAT PUMP



A new era in home climate control begins

About forty-five years ago, scientists began developing a revolutionary heating device that uses the heat of the earth's atmosphere. They called it a heat pump. Today, it is the only commercially available heating system that provides an answer to shrinking supplies of fuel oil and gas.

How the heat pump works.
Basically, the heat pump moves heat from one place to another. Using electricity to run the device, it extracts heat from a limitless source—the heat in outdoor air. During winter, enough heat remains in the air—even on the coldest and cloudiest days—to be extracted by the pump and transferred indoors as clean, flameless heat. And during warm weather, the process automatically reverses, removing excess indoor heat and humidity—like an air conditioner.

Better efficiency.
In short, the heat pump does the job of both a furnace and an air conditioner. But there's an important difference. The heat pump produces more than 1½ units of heat energy for every unit it consumes. That's better efficiency than any other current heating system.

It's ready.
It's ideal for new homes because it won't be obsolete in ten years. It's not dependent on the fossil fuels that may not be available in the future. To the homeowner, that means significant long-term savings on heating costs.

The heat pump is a big step in the conservation of scarce fuels. And here in northern Illinois, the electricity you would use to capture the heat comes mainly from coal and nuclear energy, rather than scarce oil and gas.

To get the full advantages of the heat pump, it's important to get a quality product, properly installed and reliably serviced. For the name of qualified installers in your area, call G. W. Berkheimer (Westinghouse Distrs.), (312) 374-4411, or General Electric Co., (312) 496-6356. If you want additional heat pump information, call your local Commonwealth Edison office and talk to our marketing engineer.

The way we see it

Episode shows failure of RTA

The Chicago and North Western Ry. has stopped negotiating with the Regional Transportation Authority, and as a result, quality rail service at reasonable prices for Northwest suburban commuters is in jeopardy.

Larry Provo, Chicago and North Western Ry. president, announced that the railroad is fed up with the RTA. After fighting for the transit supergroup which he believed would be the salvation of mass transportation in the Chicago area, he said last Thursday the organization is driving his North Western broke.

The controversy revolves around the RTA subsidy, which Provo says is inadequate and inequitable compared to the money funneled to the Chicago Transit Authority.

So the Chicago and North Western has decided to go on its own. And what that means is a 37½ per cent increase in fares before April 1, if the Illinois Commerce Commission approves.

Squeezed in the middle are the thousands of area commuters who were told the RTA would be the answer to potential skyrocketing fares and declining service. But they find instead that the RTA hasn't helped at all.

The RTA has become what we feared most: a tool of the Chicago bosses who place the transportation needs of the City of Chicago ahead of the same needs here. The withdrawal of the Chicago and North Western from RTA negotiations only emphasizes the problem.

With the makeup of the RTA board weighted against the suburban communities and with RTA chairman Milton Pikarsky in firm control of the board, we have little faith that such a body will effectively deal with our needs.

In announcing the North Western's decision, Provo went further and predicted the pullout of the suburbs' only profitable rail line from the RTA will mean the death of the transportation authority. We suspect it will not come to that, but what the North Western's move should mean is that the legislature look again at what it created and what voters approved by referendum a year and a half ago.

If there is a solution to the entire suburban transit problem, it rests with the General Assembly; for legislative officials must see that the RTA is not solving suburban mass transit needs.

In the meantime, we urge the Chicago and North Western to return to negotiations in an attempt to spare local riders a 37½ per cent fare increase which suburban commuters cannot afford.

You aren't the CTA!

Veto action necessary

The Illinois General Assembly has acted wisely in upholding Gov. Daniel Walker's veto of state education aid.

In a vote last week the Illinois Senate upheld the veto and thus brought the epic battle between the governor and Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley to an end.

The action will create problems for some of the state's school districts, but at the same time it will avoid forcing more expenditures on a state government with an already uncertain financial picture.

State finances, with increasing unemployment and decreasing revenue from income and sales taxes, are too uncertain to know whether the state will be able to afford the additional money in the spring.

It is also uncertain, according to State Comptroller George Lindberg, that the state will be able to avoid a tax increase even after the legislative action on school funds.

It is important to note the action does not preclude for the coming year the possibility of providing additional money for schools. Next spring, if the state's finances improve, the legislature may and should vote additional school money through a deficiency appropriation.

Candidate Reagan

'New general for conservatives'

Finally, the battle lines for the war that has been going on in this country between advocates of more and more government and less and less freedom, and those who believe in less government and more individual freedom, have been clearly drawn.

My side, less government and more individual freedom, now has an articulate, dedicated new general to lead us — Ronald Reagan.

I'm fully aware that at this point in time we're at a distinct disadvantage. Our forces have been depleted over the years because of the absence of strong national leadership. Meanwhile, our opponents have been dividing and conquering through government largess and false promises to the uninformed and the misinformed. They have also been feeding those gullible enough to swallow it, large doses of that most dangerous of all drugs, SFN, better known as Something for Nothing.

So far, the forces for huge bureaucratic government have succeeded in making one out of every three Americans dependent for livelihood on a check from the government. They have succeeded in running us into such a huge financial deficit that in 1975 it will take all of the income taxes of two-thirds of the American people just to pay the interest on our incomprehensible national debt. And they will take about 44 per cent of our income this year directly and indirectly just to maintain the government's domineering position over all of us.

So we have a lot of ground to recapture. But we also have legions of people who have been awaiting this opportunity to rescue our faltering country from the hands of the academicians, stifling bureaucratic regulators and self-serving fiscally irresponsible politicians.

With Ronald Reagan as our new leader, and with the host of people in our land who truly believe in less government and greater individual freedom, be they Republicans, Democrats or independents, we now have a chance to rescue our country from the brink of financial and bureaucratic disaster and eventually oblivion.

But, we have to Rally 'Round Reagan to do it.

2 teenage girls did 'big favor'

This Thursday night, Nov. 20, as I was returning from Prospect High School around 9:30 p.m., my blue Chevy got a flat tire, luckily within a couple of blocks from a gas station.

As I crept slowly into the station, two young girls drove behind me to tell me that I had lost one of my hubcaps. They proceeded to go out of their way to go back and pick it up.

That was a big favor on a stormy night, and it was done with the most gracious of smiles.

Young ladies, I hope you read this message. Thank you with all my heart.

...Or just an Oscar seeker?

Following is an open letter to Congressman Philip M. Crane:

You are presently scurrying about the country touting Ronald Reagan for President. May we conclude from this that he is the answer to anything that is wrong with America?

Do you believe that all a candidate has to do to qualify is to have a square haircut, wear a blue serge suit complete with vest and utter a few reactionary cliches now and then?

You, know, Mr. Crane, there is one thing I respect about the Democrats: they never deny that they are socialistic; we know where we stand with them! I can't say the same for the majority of Republicans.

Meanwhile, back at campaign headquarters, Ronald (the actor) Reagan is doing his usual splendid job of Stanislavsky as only he can do it. And his public is having more fun than a bunch of ants at a picnic. It looks like old Mr. Wonderful is headed for another Oscar.

Maybe for an encore he will show us how to put airbrakes on a jackass.

But histrionics aside, how will it end? It will end just as it did with all those other "conservatives." Namely, Eisenhower, Nixon and Ford.

More government, more military defeats, more emergencies, more workers on strike, more inflation, more apathy, a declining standard of living, more mothers working and more youngsters needing a "fix."

Paregoric anyone?

Denunciation of Zionism may only hurt refugees

By NEA/London Economist News Service

Of all bad ideas, the Arabs' successful bid to get most of the world's governments to condemn Zionism as a form of racial discrimination was one of the most misbegotten.

First, this kind of name-calling at the UN General Assembly does not help to get anything done; the reverse, in fact. Second, it is hypocritical; most of the name-callers are guilty of one or another of racism's infinite varieties. Third, it has released a gut reaction of anger among Jewish communities everywhere who refuse to accept the distinction between anti-Zionism and anti-semitism. Fourth, it provides a fresh chance for those who mumble darkly about fatuity and worse at the General Assembly to mumble even more darkly. Fifth, and most decisive, it will check those Israelis who have begun, in small numbers but increasingly, to question their country's received ideas about security and survival.

The recent vote means that Zionism now twins with apartheid as the main target for the UN majority's proclaimed decade of action against racism. In practice this does not add up to beans. In 1947 the United Nations voted to create a Jewish state; now 72 of the expanded organization's members are saying, presumably, that the original decision was wrong. But they cannot do anything about it. One can debate until the cows come home about whether or not Zionism is a racist concept, or more precisely whether Zionism as practiced in Israel amounts to racial discrimination against the indigenous Arabs.

The point is that until more Israeli Jews start asking themselves about their relations with Israeli Arabs, the Jewish state will remain fundamentally as it is. A gang vote at the UN does not produce such Israeli questioning; it produces a shout of protest about the return of Hitler.

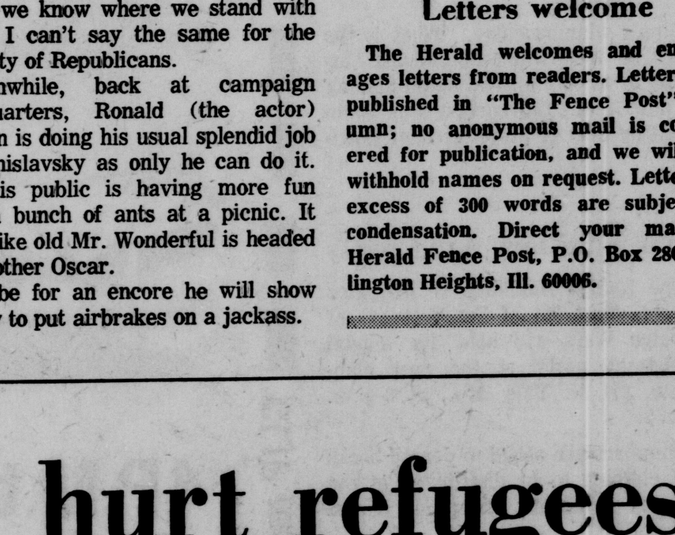
It isn't that. But the wording of the anti-Zionist motion, together with another pro-Palestinian resolution passed earlier the same day, was wild enough to give the Israeli government justified cause for concern. The earlier resolution, obscured by the fuss and fury over Zionism, was the more important of the two. Basically it calls for a UN committee of action to monitor progress towards granting the Palestine people their "inalienable rights" and to report such progress, or lack of it, back to the UN Security Council in six months' time.

These inalienable rights include the right to self-determination, national independence and sovereignty, and, for good measure, the return to their old homes and property. Without precision, the resolution, which was passed by 93 nations, leaves wide open where this national sovereign state should be. The existence of Israel is not even mentioned; but the anti-Zionist resolution, referring to "occupied Palestine," casts doubt upon the UN majority's acceptance of Israel's right to exist.

A more moderate resolution, passed at the same session and also slammed by Israel, was the one proposed by Egypt and favored by 101 governments. This calls for the participation of the Palestine Liberation Organization in all future peaceseeking efforts. Israel's prime minister, Yitzhak Rabin, was quick to say, yet again, that Israel would not negotiate with the PLO. But at some point or other, if the Arab-Israeli conflict is ever to drag itself out of its dreary mess, the Israelis will have to talk to Palestinian leaders who accept Israel.

The Palestinians have not helped themselves towards this goal by the wild swipes at the UN. They are a frustrated people; the hopes raised after the 1973 war of a compromise Palestinian state in the West Bank and Gaza have faded (partly, indeed, because the PLO itself could not bring itself to abandon its wider ambitions) and Israel's colonization of the area continues relentlessly.

Frustration manifests itself in many ways, all of them ugly. Yet the more thoughtful Palestinians know that their hopes for the future lie largely in the emergence within Israel of people who reject the fortress mentality of the state's first generation of rulers. The ugliness and folly of the UN resolutions will have driven many clear-minded Israelis back into that fortress.



What cactus? There's no cactus!

The way we see it

Episode shows failure of RTA

The Chicago and North Western Ry. has stopped negotiating with the Regional Transportation Authority, and as a result, quality rail service at reasonable prices for Northwest suburban commuters is in jeopardy.

Larry Provo, Chicago and North Western Ry. president, announced that the railroad is fed up with the RTA. After fighting for the transit supergroup which he believed would be the salvation of mass transportation in the Chicago area, he said last Thursday the organization is driving his North Western broke.

The controversy revolves around the RTA subsidy, which Provo says is inadequate and inequitable compared to the money funneled to the Chicago Transit Authority.

So the Chicago and North Western has decided to go on its own. And what that means is a 37½ per cent increase in fares before April 1, if the Illinois Commerce Commission approves.

Squeezed in the middle are the thousands of area commuters who were told the RTA would be the answer to potential skyrocketing fares and declining service. But they find instead that the RTA hasn't helped at all.

The RTA has become what we feared most: a tool of the Chicago bosses who place the transportation needs of the City of Chicago ahead of the same needs here. The withdrawal of the Chicago and North Western from RTA negotiations only emphasizes the problem.

With the makeup of the RTA board weighted against the suburban communities and with RTA chairman Milton Pikarsky in firm control of the board, we have little faith that such a body will effectively deal with our needs.

In announcing the North Western's decision, Provo went further and predicted the pullout of the suburbs' only profitable rail line from the RTA will mean the death of the transportation authority. We suspect it will not come to that, but what the North Western's move should mean is that the legislature look again at what it created and what voters approved by referendum a year and a half ago.

If there is a solution to the entire suburban transit problem, it rests with the General Assembly; for legislative officials must see that the RTA is not solving suburban mass transit needs.

In the meantime, we urge the Chicago and North Western to return to negotiations in an attempt to spare local riders a 37½ per cent fare increase which suburban commuters cannot afford.

You aren't the CTA!

Candidate Reagan

'New general for conservatives'

Finally, the battle lines for the war that has been going on in this country between advocates of more and more government and less and less freedom, and those who believe in less government and more individual freedom, have been clearly drawn.

My side, less government and more individual freedom, now has an articulate, dedicated new general to lead us — Ronald Reagan.

I'm fully aware that at this point in time we're at a distinct disadvantage. Our forces have been depleted over the years because of the absence of strong national leadership. Meanwhile, our opponents have been dividing and conquering through government largess and false promises to the uninformed and the misinformed. They have also been feeding those gullible enough to swallow it, large doses of that most dangerous of all drugs, SFN, better known as Something for Nothing.

So far, the forces for huge bureaucratic government have succeeded in making one out of every three Americans dependent for livelihood on a check from the government. They have succeeded in running us into such a huge financial deficit that in 1975 it will take all of the income taxes of two-thirds of the American people just to pay the interest on our incomprehensible national debt. And they will take about 44 per cent of our income this year directly and indirectly just to maintain the government's domineering position over all of us.

So we have a lot of ground to recapture. But we also have legions of people who have been awaiting this opportunity to rescue our faltering country from the hands of the academicians, stifling bureaucratic regulators and self-serving fiscally irresponsible politicians.

Veto action necessary

The Illinois General Assembly has acted wisely in upholding Gov. Daniel Walker's veto of state education aid.

In a vote last week the Illinois Senate upheld the veto and thus brought the epic battle between the governor and Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley to an end.

The action will create problems for some of the state's school districts, but at the same time it will avoid forcing more expenditures on a state government with an already uncertain financial picture.

State finances, with increasing unemployment and decreasing revenue from income and sales taxes, are too uncertain to know whether the state will be able to afford the additional money in the spring.

It is also uncertain, according to State Comptroller George Lindberg, that the state will be able to avoid a tax increase even after the legislative action on school funds.

It is important to note the action does not preclude for the coming year the possibility of providing additional money for schools. Next spring, if the state's finances improve, the legislature may and should vote additional school money through a deficiency appropriation.

Women and children first

Which marriage partner can claim bank accounts?

by JULIE MARTOCCIO

Dear Attorney Martoccio,

My husband and I have been married several years, out of which I have worked either full or part-time. We own a home and have no children. We aren't getting along and my husband has taken all the savings books and check books and won't let me have a key to our deposit box. He said nothing in there is my business.

This has been going on for two years and isn't right, because I never buy a lot of things. If I do, I use my own money. I never even had a charge. Now I'm wondering, can he do any changing of the books without my knowledge? Also, what will happen if I leave him? He wants me to leave because he says he can't live anywhere cheaper. Thank you. — Anonymous

Dear Anonymous,

I hope that by the time this appears in print that you will have retained, or at least, consulted a lawyer.

It certainly appears from your husband's actions that he is pushing for some kind of break in your marriage and is trying to accomplish it by subtle means. It appears, too, that he is hoping that you will take the blame.

If there is no threat to your person, I do not think it is wise for you to leave your home at this time before consulting a lawyer. I feel sure that you are somewhat aware of the fact that if one spouse moves out without the consent of the other that there is a chance that the one moving out could be charged with desertion. Strictly speaking if one spouse forces the other out of the house, the one who has done the forcing is the guilty party in a divorce action. However, the latter might be difficult to prove and in any event, the moving out by one spouse is generally suspect, and may work against him or her when a divorce does take place.

You did not state whether or not the savings, checking account and the safety deposit box were in your joint names or his alone.

• Should any or all of these be in your husband's name alone, then you would not be expected to claim anything from them at this time. However, if you retained a lawyer, he or she could seek a remedy through the courts to restrain your husband's wrongful actions, and to keep him from dissipating assets that belong to the two of you.

• If, on the other hand, your bank accounts are jointly owned, you, too, have the right to draw from them even without a bank book. Let your bank know that you do not have one and they will issue one to you. I do not see how your husband can alter the bank book, but if you feel that he can, again why not go to the bank and get your own statement?

• The safety deposit box is not yours, of course, if it is not in joint ownership. If, however, you are a joint owner, you will have to consult the bank about it, and if you do not presently have a key, the person in charge will have you fill out the proper papers that will permit you to have one. It is possible, however, that although your husband took the safety deposit box in his name only and that you have some of your belongings in it. If this is the case, then by all means retain a lawyer to take the necessary steps to stop your husband from disposing of what is rightfully yours before he passes it on to someone else or sells it.

Dear D. R.

I'm sorry you "got the run around" from your local officials about the abandoned construction which has now partially filled with water and where a child has already fallen in it. I think you are to be commended rather than rejected for your efforts. Perhaps a quicker way to get some action is to contact the owners of the property first. It could be that they are not aware of the condition. If you cannot reach them, try contacting the health department. Another measure, possibly the most practical and quickest, is to reach the Cook County commissioner from your area, since you are not within the confines of a city.

Speaking of . .

Giving thanks for that margin

by KAY MARSH

I went back to college this week — for a four-hour workshop on adapting to change.

Why the emphasis on change? Because change is the one constant in our total environment. And adapting to change is a challenge that all of us face anew every single day.

This particular program was developed for hospital personnel. But I wish that you and all adults — hospital people, office workers, housewives or whatever — could have a similar experience.

What exactly did we do? We talked; we listened; we "played games." We worked in small "nudge-a-neighbor" groups and we discussed as a class. And the subject matter was that most interesting of all subjects: ourselves.

THERE WAS some introductory material on various responses to change. We talked a bit about transactional analysis, and the value of "warm fuzzies" or "cold pricklies." ("Warm fuzzies," by the way, are words and actions of support and encouragement. "Cold pricklies" are just the opposite.)

The pencil and paper "games" or worksheets were revealing. We spent some time on value clarification. We attempted to define our goals and objectives. We tried to measure our rigidity.

To me, though, the most interesting and important part of the afternoon came when the instructor introduced us to the Theory of Margin, developed by Howard McClusky at the University of Michigan.

In simplest terms, the theory is simply that "Power minus Load equal Margin."

WE ALL, OUR instructor pointed out, need a certain amount of "margin" in our life to cope with crises situations. We need "margin" to be creative, flexible and effective. We need "margin" to restore and recharge. If our "power" and our "load" are equal, then we have a red flag condition, because we have no "margin."

It's easy to talk about our "load." Most of us play, or try to play, many roles. We have community responsibilities. Our jobs are often difficult and demanding. We have a heavy inner "load," too, of our own aspirations and limitations.

However, I kept thinking about all this long after I got home. I haven't as yet had a chance to explore McClusky's theory in any more detail, and I certainly don't pretend to know much about it after one brief exposure.

BUT IT SEEMS to me that we all give too little thought to the "power" in our life.

At this adult workshop we each listed on a sheet of paper all the items we could think of under both "load" and "power." Yes, the "load" lists were long. But so were the lists for "power."

Some typical entries under "power" were "helpful and supportive friends and family," "professional training," "belief in the value of what I am doing" and "personal pride and self-esteem." Other lists itemized various mental and physical abilities, talents and skills, assets and a surprising variety of other resources.

The point I am trying to make here is that we all have more "power" than we think. And I suggest that one way to celebrate Thanksgiving is to sit down and make your own list, not only of the "load" items in your life, but also of all the "power" items you can find.

OF COURSE, I don't know how much "margin" you'll have when you subtract your personal "load" from your personal "power."

But if your experience follows the pattern of those of us in this particular group, you'll be pleasantly surprised at just how long your "power" list is — and at just how much "margin" you have for which to be thankful.

THE NEW WOMAN'S Survival Sourcebook is described by authors Susan Rennie and Kirsten Grimstad as "an inventory of the ideas of feminism. It is a documentation of the incredibly exciting and significant emergence of female consciousness."

New Survival Sourcebook

Feminists catalog progress

by KAREN THOMPSON

Not a single woman is untouched by the feminist movement. We don't all admit it, but according to Susan Rennie and Kirsten Grimstad, authors of The New Woman's Survival Sourcebook, it's true.

Kirsten and Susan, former teachers at Columbia University in New York, now call themselves professional information gatherers. They traveled 12,000 miles talking to women across the United States, gathering personal insight into the activities of women for their book. It is a unique overview of feminism today.

"We formerly looked at the women's movement from a New York perspective," said Susan. "We thought it was weakening, as did many others, because the marches were drawing fewer and fewer supporters.

"WE WERE startled and amazed at the outpouring of energy from women. The hysterical feminism of the past is over and women ar now going beyond rhetoric and marching. They are today, actually expressing themselves in countless ways. The great strength of the women's movement is its diversity," said Susan.

Two years ago, in their first book, The New Woman's Survival Catalog, the authors described the self-help resources that women were organizing to gain control over their lives.

The new book authenticates the almost unbelievable acceleration of that process. Women are putting their imprint on American culture. This new book, according to Kirsten and Susan, is just the tip of the iceberg. The women's movement is rampant in America's large cities, it's happening in Iowa City, Iowa, and Winneconne, Wis.

The women's movement is broadening its base in many areas. Susan cited religion. "We were very surprised that women in organized religion are on the move. Even Mormon women are exploring their heritage. In the early days of the Mormon church, women were exhorted to go into professions. There are stirrings in every religion. Women are not just saying 'let us be ministers and priests.' They are changing the rituals and writings of the church."

"I BELIEVE IN equal pay for equal work, but I'm not a feminist," is a much hackneyed line used by women. The work section of the Sourcebook incorporates alarming statistics that prove we've come a long way — but not nearly far enough.

Here's just one example that brings it all home. "Though there are no significant differences in educational background of men and women employed in Chicago's loop area, the 91,000 women employes each earn an average of $5,300 as compared to $13,000 for men."

Violence against women has until recently meant rape. The authors reveal a new, hidden aspect of female oppression. "Slowly it's beginning to leak out: the most shockingly widespread form of violence against women is wife battering, which, like rape, is a common but largely unreported crime."

On a recent trip to England, Kirsten and Susan toured a center that offers refuge to women and children who are victims of battering. What started as one home, now has grown to 44 in England.

"IT'S AN alternative for these women. They were coming to the center for refuge and pleading not to be sent back home. The center gives them a sense of hope. It helps them to discover they can find a new life and it's not their failures that caused the family problem," said Kirsten.

Did you realize that there are over 100 self-published books of poetry on the market written by women? "We are making great strides in the arts," said Susan. "There is an incredible outpouring from women and it's just beginning. There is a need to express that we haven't seen in the past."

The authors explained that because women's expressiveness has been, and still in many cases is, considered trivial, women have been forced to set up their own printing operations, bookstores and distribution agencies.

The Sourcebook is all woman-made except the printing which was done by Alfred A. Knopf of New York. Susan and Kirsten remember the trials of getting their first book published. "We would go to lunch with publishers only to be told that the women's market was just a fad that would fade," said Susan.

THE CATALOG sold 100,000 copies. Who buys the books? "We know feminists are buying it, except those feminists that think they are so hep they don't need it," said Kirsten.

"But many other women who don't consider themselves feminists are becoming curious. We get reactions from women at home who wouldn't have spoken out last year. The movement is getting a legitimacy about it."

Through their travels and personal contacts, Susan and Kirsten have become attuned and sensitive to women's feelings — not just feminists but women in all walks of life.

"Many women feel frightened and threatened by the changes going on," said Susan. "But some of the strongest feminists today were very anti yesterday. Women who feel frightened and vulnerable today will be strong and individual tomorrow."

"THERE ARE ways to reach those women who are skeptical. Feminists are not trying to take anything away from anyone. We must have choices — for both men and women."

By writing the Sourcebook, Susan and Kirsten have come to the realization that the women's movement, although more subtle nowadays, is growing at "a pace too fast for any single book to describe or even represent adequately the resources and ideas that feminism generates."

Consequently The New Woman's Survival Catalog and The New Woman's Survival Sourcebook will be transformed into Chrysalis, a new national feminist magazine published, edited and printed by women.

Bottom round good buy

Interested in an economical roast, with no fat or bones? Then pay attention to what Lois Kalb has been able to do with bottom round. Her description led me to go looking for a well-marbled bottom round roast. (Even lean roast have to have some marbling to taste good.)

What you do first is make a mixture of one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon sugar and one-fourth teaspoon black pepper. Cut the fat off the outside of the round, put it in a roasting pan and melt enough to cover the bottom of the pan. Rub the salt, sugar and pepper mix all over the roast and brown it all over on low heat. Shove it to one side and gently brown a sliced onion.

At this point, cover and cook the roast, still over low heat, on top of the stove for about three hours — until tender. Mine needed a little water and basting twice. Thickened with flour and water, the gravy was delicious, too.

Dear Dorothy: Others may be interested in how I spotcleaned my beige nylon rug. Using a spray-and-wash laundry spray, I sprayed the stained part and applied a wet towel for a couple of minutes. Then I scrubbed the area with a slightly soapy solution and rinsed the section with a clean cloth wrung out of clear water. Rinsed it several times. It was a total success. As this stain was in the entrance way where there is so much traffic, I thought it an excellent place to check the method, although maybe one should experiment if a stained rug has different colors in it. —Mrs. Erma M. Worms still big problem

I'm 55 and after going to two doctors with my stomach trouble discovered I have a nest of worms. I took three different types of patent medicine, went to one doctor again and took what he prescribed, and the other doctor said it might be fiber.

Thousands of roundworms are passing, and there is no end to this as they multiply fast. I've no more funds for doctors now, and I wonder what you might suggest.

Neither doctor prescribed any type of diet or any real laxative, but I have taken a new cure which is a mild laxative.

I'm sure they are the normal variety. However, some are long and look flat, white and have a ribbed-like body.

I am a baby sitter so may have gotten these from children I cared for. I work for a wholesale candy firm so may have eaten lots of sugar. I frequented a burger stand that closed recently.

Some of my city readers may be surprised to learn that worms are still a major problem in parts of the United States. That specifically includes the large roundworms which you may have. Tapeworms also occur. There are probably over 2 million cases of roundworms in the U. S. and Canada, based on the worldwide studies of worm infections. I can't tell from your description whether you have roundworms or tapeworms, but the only way anyone can tell is by looking at them.

I strongly suggest that you take some actual specimens to the doctor, whether or not you can afford to see him. He will tell you where to go to get financial help for proper treatment in your community. Most communities have some type of care that can be given even to persons with no financial resources. If necessary, ask your county welfare office for help.

ALTHOUGH YOU CAN get tapeworms from beef, pork and one type of fish, that is not how you get roundworms. These are usually associated with poor sanitation. They are spread from infected people to the soil and to privy areas. Some of the worms invade the skin, others gain access through eggs that are very small and are ingested.

I don't think anyone with your problem should be baby sitting or working as a food handler if that is what you have been doing.

Those roundworm infestations that people have are no small matter. In large numbers they can cause colicky abdominal pains. In the life cycle they spread by way of the circulation to the longs, literally crawl up the respiratory tract, out of the windpipe and into the back of the thraot. Here they crawl into the esophagus and pass through the stomach to the intestines to set up housekeeping.

IN ADDITION TO the nutrition problems that they can cause, if you treat these actively yourself with some medicine that actually works, you have the risk of causing an intestinal obstruction. I must strongly advise that your treatment should be under the supervision of a doctor.

Untreated cases can persist for 20 to 40 years if not detected, and the individual may continue to be a source of infection. There are a wide variety of complications various ones of these worms can cause. They have even been found in the nose and ear. The large roundworms may be several inches long (some varieties as long as 13 inches) and other varieties may be so small they can hardly be seen.

Bottom round good buy

The homeline
by Dorothy Ritz

Interested in an economical roast, with no fat or bones? Then pay attention to what Lois Kalb has been able to do with bottom round. Her description led me to go looking for a well-marbled bottom round roast. (Even lean roast have to have some marbling to taste good.)

What you do first is make a mixture of one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon sugar and one-fourth teaspoon black pepper. Cut the fat off the outside of the round, put it in a roasting pan and melt enough to cover the bottom of the pan. Rub the salt, sugar and pepper mix all over the roast and brown it all over on low heat. Shove it to one side and gently brown a sliced onion.

At this point, cover and cook the roast, still over low heat, on top of the stove for about three hours — until tender. Mine needed a little water and basting twice. Thickened with flour and water, the gravy was delicious, too.

Dear Dorothy: Others may be interested in how I spotcleaned my beige nylon rug. Using a spray-and-wash laundry spray, I sprayed the stained part and applied a wet towel for a couple of minutes. Then I scrubbed the area with a slightly soapy solution and rinsed the section with a clean cloth wrung out of clear water. Rinsed it several times. It was a total success. As this stain was in the entrance way where there is so much traffic, I thought it an excellent place to check the method, although maybe one should experiment if a stained rug has different colors in it. —Mrs. Erma M. Gruber

Dear Dorothy: A lot of people know you should rub soap on the outside of a pan used in a campfire, but if one forgets and the pan gets black with soot, a dampened sponge and baking soda will take care of it. —Caroline Mandel

Thanks, Caroline. We've been neglecting baking soda lately.

Ask Andy

Amphibians come in all sizes

Andy sends a complete 20-volume set of the Merit Students Encyclopedia to Randy Mullins, 10, of Huntsville, Ala., for his question:
WHICH IS THE LARGEST AMPHIBIAN?

The amphibian we know best wears a wide smile on his froggy face, and he is just the right size to squat in the palm of your hand. But frogs are not the only amphibians in our world. There are shy little salamanders and a few giant salamanders. In certain tropical jungles are amphibians that look like overgrown earthworms called caecilians. Some of these are almost as long but not nearly as wide as the giant salamanders.

Once upon a time, the world was populated with amphibians that ranged from a few inches to eight feet long. This was 300 million years ago, when ferny coal forests thrived in the soggy swamps. The amphibians were the first backboned animals who left the seas to live on land.

Later, reptiles and other animals arrived, and the amphibians declined. About 3,000 species survived to modern times, but most are smallish frogs and salamanders. However, there still are a few giants in out-of-the-way places — though they are quite a bit smaller than their ancient ancestors.

As a matter of fact, one of these whopping amphibians lived in North America. He is a wide, flat salamander type, as wrinkled as a prune. We call him the hellbender — and he prefers to keep out of sight on the muddy floor of some lazy stream. He feeds on fishes and other live meat. If you accidentally catch him on a fish hook, chances are he will make a grab at your finger.

Most of the giant salamanders live a long time, and an old hellbender may reach a length of 30 inches. He is, to be sure, a whopping amphibian — but he is not the biggest of his tribe. The real giant salamanders enjoy life in certain streams of China and Japan. There the people try to catch them for, we are told, their meat is very tasty.

Some of the giant salamanders of Asia grow as long as five feet and weigh as much as 90 pounds. They are almost as big as their giant ancestors that lived in the coal forests of long ago. But they are the largest living amphibians.

Experts divide the amphibians into three groups. One includes the warty toads and the smiling frogs. Another includes the salamanders, large and small. The third group is the caecilians, legless burrowers that live in certain tropical jungles. They look like skinny earthworms, and some are four and a half feet long. Other amphibians lay jellified eggs — but a few caecilians gave birth to live babies.

Andy sends a 7-volume set of the Chronicles of Narnia to Timothy Schmide, 9, of Staten Island, N.Y., for his question:
WHERE DO TOMATO BUGS COME FROM?

Our precious tomato plants may be attacked by several different insect enemies. But the worst of them is a monstrous green caterpillar — who may grow bigger than your finger. This critter is an insect, so naturally he started life as an egg. The story begins in the dead of night, when a female moth flies around the tomato plants. She has a fat furry body, and her color is mainly brownish gray. Her wings are three or four inches wide and may have a few patches of pale pink or yellow.

She is a sphynx moth, and she chooses a tomato plant on which to lay her eggs because when the caterpillars hatch they like to feed on tomato leaves. The hungry critters start out too small to notice. They soon grow big and fat, but their green color matches the leaves and they may be hard to find. Search for a twig that has been stripped of its leaves and most likely you will find the greedy grub right near the scene of the crime.

Do you have a question to ASK ANDY? Send it on a post card with your name, age and complete address to ASK ANDY in care of The Herald, P.O. Box 680, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. Entries open to girls and boys 7 to 17.

Ten diamonds in this hand calls for open

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

Freak hands are always hard to bid because bidding is based on experience and you don't get enough of these freaks to enable you to develop a system to cope with them.

Today's hand was sent us by a Kentucky reader.

The South hand will take 10 tricks with diamonds as trump and should be opened with either one diamond or with a forcing two bid. We slightly favor opening with one diamond since there is bound to be action.

Our reader showed us the North hand also and the bidding in the box shows how to get to six diamonds.

North's spade response is obvious.

Now South jumps right to the diamond game. North looks over his hand, decides South must have enough diamonds for both of them and bids six clubs. This six-club bid is not an effort to play in clubs. It merely shows the ace in case South might want to bid a grand slam.

Chrysler unveils two compacts to hike sales

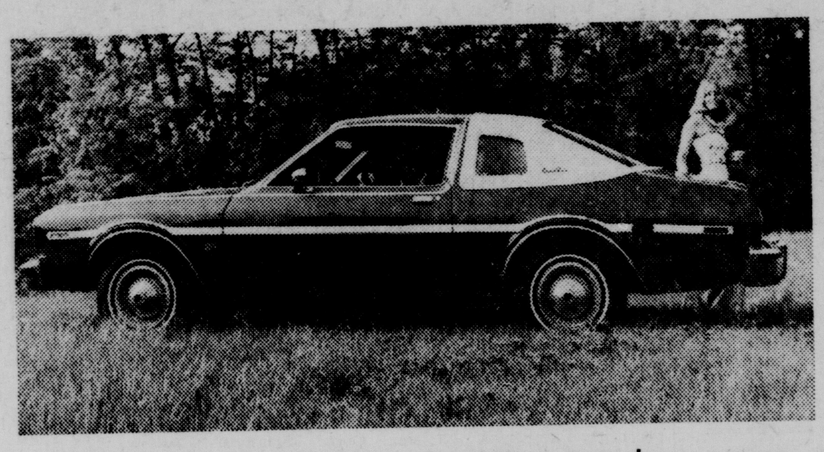
'Little cuties' — hopeful stopgap to red ink

by MIKE KLEIN

Thank you, Chrysler Motors Corp. The American consumers fondly appreciate the world's first alternator and standard electronic ignition. They also express thanks for your new lean-burn engine which preaches efficiency and equally new transverse suspension which swallows bumps like slot machines take quarters.

Those are significant innovations to the auto industry, all by Chrysler. But American consumers have not been nearly so charitable with their checkbooks. The nice folks who also build Dodge and Plymouth sustained a $300 million deficit during the past five financial quarters.

It's painfully obvious, therefore, that Chrysler's two new little cuties . . . the freshly released Dodge Aspen and Plymouth Volare . . . are a hopeful stopgap to that swirling red ink.



1976 Dodge Aspen special edition two-door coupe.

1976 Plymouth Volare Premier Sedan.

THE TWO COMPACTS, which both feature fastback coupes, sedans and wagons in essentially the same styling, are expected to sell 400,000 combined units during this model year.

That was the prediction made last week by Chrysler public relations manager John McCandless. The Aspen and Volare were given a special press showing at the Hyatt-Regency O'Hare Hotel in Rosemont.

It's a big order. Chrysler, however, was lucky when it expected just 33,000 sales units for its 1975 Cordoba, last year's new mid-size entry. The car was a big favorite and sold more than 100,000.

Despite Cordoba's success, plus increased sales among intermediate-sized cars and trucks (mostly vans), Chrysler still saw its share of the domestic market decrease by 1.5 per cent.

"It doesn't sound like much, but when you're talking about the volume of this industry, it sure hurts," said McCandless.

Chrysler sold 300,000 fewer 1975 models than 1974 cars when total units sold exceeded 1.3 million. It retains only 16 per cent of the market.

That is the problem which Aspen and Volare must tackle. The pine box hasn't been nailed shut, but there's some chance that the smaller Dodge Dart and Plymouth Valiant might be eliminated if these new entries catch the public's fancy.

THE DART and Valiant are proven compacts, but McCandless said, "If the demand drops below the point where it's not economical to mass produce them, they'll simply switch production to the Aspen and Volare."

These new Dodge and Plymouth fastback coupes look nearly the same as the larger Plymouth Duster. Their sedan models resemble the Ford Granada and Mercury Monarch, which were styled after the Mercedes 280.

By regarding the Chevrolet Vega, Pontiac Astre, Ford Pinto and Mercury Bobcats as sub-compacts, Chrysler can boast that Aspen and Volare have the only true compact car wagon lines.

Outside of the Chevrolet Chevette, General Motors' mini-car with the lofty mileage rating, Aspen and Volare are this model year's only new domestic cars.

American Motors' compact Pacer, a market favorite, was a 1975 mid-year entry.

With Aspen and Volare, the customer clearly gets the car he can afford, according to Chrysler. Suggested retail prices for their two-door, six-cylinder (225-cubic-inch) coupe models are under $3,350.

Recommended retail for the four-door, eight-cylinder (318-cubic-inch) is slightly more than $4,500 in both cases.

Thus, it's possible to assemble a six-cylinder Aspen or Volare with luxury appointments that costs more than $5,100, as did the Aspen we test drove.

As McCandless said, "You can make it a $5,500 car, easily."

CHRYSLER WILL advertise the benefits of economy and flashy styling with big car handling, ride and comfort. It also will try to avoid a mistake that Ford made with the introduction of its now highly popular Mustang II.

Ford also advertised economy and low purchase price. But the Ford showrooms were filled with Mustangs which had all the options, too, and customers were slow in warming up to the higher prices.

Their 201.5-inch length places the Aspen and Volare four-door models in the same dimensions as Cadillac's Seville (203.9), the Chevrolet Nova (196.7) and Mercury Monarch (197.7).

The standard 225-cubic-inch, six-cylinder engine has EPA ratings of 18 miles per gallon in the city and 23 in highway driving.

In nearly 20 miles of tollway and urban driving, the six-cylinder, automatic transmission Aspen responded well to both tight and loose corners. It steered with relative ease.

THE ASPEN also performed very well on bumpy stretches, partially due to Chrysler's new suspension system which places the torsion bars ahead of front wheels and absorbs road shocks into two sets of thick rubber mounts.

If the Aspen had any deficiency, it lagged into tollway traffic, an expected problem with the six-cylinder.

The Volare "Road Runner" and Aspen R/T, Chrysler's sporty models, have performance options which include the smaller eight-cylinder engine plus a floor mounted, four-speed manual transmission with overdrive.

Chrysler has spent almost four years and many millions of dollars on the Aspen and Volare. Models will be in showrooms soon, even though the advertising push isn't scheduled to begin until next month.

These cars must succeed so Chrysler can swim in less red ink. "We think they're worth tooting our horn over," said McCandless. "There's not any way these won't succeed. They'll be big sellers."

Piston-engine Mazda gets 32 to 42 mpg: EPA

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mazda, the rotary-engine import car, has introduced a piston-engine model that tops everything in its class for fuel economy, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency reported Monday.

The EPA rated Mazda's 808 "Mizer" at 42 miles per gallon in highway driving and 32 mpg in city driving. The combined average, which is weighted to favor city driving, was 36 mpg. This topped by 3 mpg the weighted averages for the 1976 Datsun B210, Chevrolet Chevette and Subaru, the cars that came out the best in previously released EPA figures.

The Mazda figures are the best fuel economy for any 1976 auto over 2,500 pounds.

Mazda said it expects to market the new model in America after the first of the year at a price under $3,000.

Mazda introduced rotary engine cars in 1970 and sales pushed the vehicle model to No. 4 among imports in 1973 but the Arab oil embargo spurred interest in fuel conservation.

By 1974, the Mazda rotary engine RX-4 model was rated at 11 mpg and sales dipped. A Mazda spokesman said Mazda is not abandoning rotary engine cars, which have had improvements in fuel economy ratings.

Environment group asks investigation

Citizens for a Better Environment, a Chicago environmental research organization, has called for an investigation by the federal Nuclear Regulatory Commission of a Commonwealth Edison Co. subcontractor.

Questionable contracting practices of the Dames & Moore firm should be investigated, said the group's statement. The company conducted geological surveys of Commonwealth Edison's nuclear plant sites including the Byron, Ill. plant. Geological faults, discovered at the Byron site, were not reported by Dames & Moore or the utility, in environmental statements.

How can you overcome this obstacle? Your resume must be composed so that it DEMANDS attention and at once presents you as a logical choice for employment.

How can you make sure that your resume will generate more interviews?

Phone for details or a no-obligation appointment. Since 1957, we have assisted men & women on their first job, to the senior executive.

Resume Service

HOW IMPORTANT ARE RESUMES?

A resume is your first impression with a potential employer. It is the only effective method to present your credentials when applying for a job.

Unfortunately, a resume will frequently ELIMINATE an applicant than it will secure the all-important interview.

Your resume will compete for attention with those of many other applicants for that interview.

How can you overcome this obstacle? Your resume must be composed so that it DEMANDS attention and at once presents you as a logical choice for employment.

How can you make sure that your resume will generate more interviews?

Phone for details or a no-obligation appointment. Since 1957, we have assisted men & women on their first job, to the senior executive.

Hawks ride Arden's hand in big win over Lancers

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

Jim Arden hammered home 23 points and Steve Loughman and Scott Green combined for 30 as the Harper Hawks took the long road back to even their season slate at 1-1 with an 81-75 win over the Lake County Lancers Tuesday night at St. Viator.

The Hawks fell behind 15-13 early in the first half and played on the short end until only 7:33 remained in the game when Loughman, who had 16 points, put a jumper through the hole to give Harper a 62-61 lead.

Even then it wasn't over, though, as the two clubs swapped turns on top four times before Harper took the lead for good at 68-67 on another basket by Loughman.

"I just couldn't be happier winning this one with all the problems we had," said coach Roger Bechtold.

Things started looking bad for Harper event before the game began. Starting center Scott Green landed on a teammates' foot during warmups and twisted his ankle.

"If Scott couldn't have played we really would have been in trouble," Bechtold said. "Even with him, though, we were getting beaten badly on the boards in the first half."

Lake County, sporting a front line of universal jumpers, picked off 20 offensive rebounds in the first half while Harper could recover just two. And behind the shooting of guards Bob Calhoun and Greg Hasty ballooned their control over Harper to 45-37 at the half.

Clahoun, a sophomore from Waukegan who is the brother of Los Angeles Laker Corky Calhoun, took his defender underneath repeatedly and then jumped over him to can 20 points.

Hasty, who later dueled with Harper's Van McLeod for quickest-on-the-floor honors, divided his time between burning his defender for layups or potting away from outside. Hasty totaled 14 points.

"We were a different team in the second half," Bechtold remarked. "We started running our plays and started holding our own on the boards."

Arden fired for a dozen of his points in the second half, putting up his jumper whether wide open or under wraps and hitting nine of 17 for the game.

Wally Butman hit back to back buckets early in the second half to trim Lake County's lead to a pair. Later McLeod, who finished with nine points and a fistful of hot basketballs, stripped Lake County of the ball at midcourt and flew in for the layup to trim the lead to one.

Moments later Loughman fired home the go ahead basket and Harper was enroute to winning their first game of the season a month sooner than they did last year.

"This was a very physical game tonight," Bechtold said, "but I'm glad it turned out this way because we showed we could play that way.

"Everybody played pretty well tonight, I thought. Arden is a fine offensive ballplayer but he needs to develop in other ways. Green moved really well underneath and we'd have been hurting without him."

Harper will play next in the DuPage tournament Friday, Nov. 28 and Saturday Nov. 29.

Three teams make debuts tonight in tourney play

A Herald Staff Report

The final three play tonight.

Elk Grove, Fremd and Rolling Meadows — the only area basketball teams still without actual game competition — take the wraps off their 1975-76 seasons in tournament play.

Elk Grove and Rolling Meadows will host their own round robin tournaments and Fremd will journey to Glenbard West as part of an ambitious Thanskgiving Eve schedule.

Here's the way the three clubs shape up prior to their openers:

ELK GROVE

With one starter returning from a 14-12 season in 1974, the Elk Grove Grenadiers will begin the quest for their fifth consecutive winning campaign when they host their own round robin tournament beginning tonight at 7:00

Lake Park, Addison Trail and Hoffman Estates will provide Bill Parmentier's Grens with plenty of opportunity to see how his four new frontliners are going to react to life in the bigtime.

"Our inexperience is the only thing that worries me," Parmentier said. "We've been working hard to develop a complete team but you just can't tell about new players until they get in a game."

One player Parmentier has no questions about is his son Joe, a quicksilver junior guard who was third in scoring for Elk Grove last year with a 9.1 grade.

"Joe is a year older and a year better," Parmentier said. "He's had some trouble with his ankle this year but he'll be ready to go. I expect a lot out of him."

Parmentier will join senior Mike Behm at guard with senior Mark Sass (6-1) and junior Mark Smith (6-5) at the forwards and 6-4 senior Dave Hornacek at center.

Aside from Parmentier, Hornacek saw more action last season than any other starter and placed fourth in rebounding with just limited playing time. He also averaged 4.6 points a game.

"This will be a typical Elk Grove team," Parmentier asserted with a trace of pride in his voice. "We will be aggressive and play defense.

"We've worked exclusively towards establishing a team game. It is probably one or two kids who will step out and take the leadership role, but we're going to play a team game."

Parmentier is awaiting a face mask for Danny Walters, a 6-2 forward. He had his nose smashed last Christmas, an injury so severe there were doubts about Walters even coming out for the team this year.

"He hasn't played much since then," Parmentier said, "and I've got to hold him out until the mask arrives. He will really help us, though, once he gets ready. He was really coming on last year when he got hurt."

Parmentier is also counting on help from 6-2 Gary Knapik and 5-10 junior guard Mark Evans.

"We've put in some new plans to give the players more freedom and mobility on the court," Parmentier said. "But it will all depend on how the new players react to varsity ball. If they respond like they have in practice we could have a nice team."

ROLLING MEADOWS

The prep version of "California Split" has taken some of the wind out of the Rolling Meadows varsity basketball team's sails, but first-year head coach Bill Weinberg is still blessed with a good-sized, fine-shooting squad.

"We lost both Bill Kiley (6-foot-9) and his brother Kevin (6-7) when they moved to California this summer," Weinberg said.

The split by the giants leaves Weinberg with two returning lettermen — 6-foot-3 guard Dave Bell and 6-4 forward Jerry McGill.

Others slated for duty are senior guards 5-10 Noe Nunez and 6-1 Ken Breitbeil, forwards 6-3 John Carbery, 6-6 Steve Duffy and 6-3 Terry Moran and pivotmen 6-4 Rob Soderholm and 6-7 Bill Wissen.

Juniors vying for an opening are 6-0 Bob Rose, 6-0 Sam DeMarie and 6-2 Jeff Schrock. As sophomores, the trio helped forge a splendid 18-2 record while this year's senior crop went 11-2 on the jayvee level.

"I've seen them play for three years now," said Weinberg, who coached both the sophomores and the junior varsity before succeeding Ken Arneson as head coach this season.

"We need to see some strange faces," Weinberg said referring to Rolling Meadows' yearning for competition which they will receive tonight against Niles North by hosting their own Thanksgiving Tournament.

"The kids seem well dedicated," Weinberg said. "I think we'll have some muscle under the basket and we'll move pretty well. Bell, Breitbeil and McGill are all fine shooters. Now all we need to gain expeiience is a ball game."

The Mustangs will tangle with Niles North at 8:30 tonight, face Fenton at 8:30 on Friday evening and close with Maine North at 8:30 Saturday night in

CLEVELAND'S Steve Patterson is being rumored in a possible trade for Chicago's Nate Thurmond.

Bulls' tailspin continues; Nate fails to show

Jim Chones scored 23 points as the Cleveland Cavaliers held off a fourth-quarter rally by the Chicago Bulls to earn a 98-94 win Tuesday night at the Chicago Stadium.

The loss was Chicago's ninth in succession, tying a club record.

The Cavaliers had a 16-point lead in the second period but saw it fade in the final period when Tom Boerwinkle put the Bulls ahead 84-83. Consecutive baskets by Campy Russell put the Cavaliers ahead to stay as the Cavs made seven out of 10 free throws in the final two minutes.

Bulls guard Norm Van Lier led all scorers with 28 points.

Cleveland held a 50-39 halftime lead and saw that dwindle to 68-67 after three periods as Chicago outscored Cleveland 28-18 in the third period.

Prior to the game, it was announced that Chicago center Nate Thurmond would not dress for the game for "personal reasons." Thurmond had called the Bulls' office in the afternoon and told managing partner Jonathan Kovler he would not be with the team for the game.

According to a source close to Thurmond, the 6-foot-11 veteran center was apparently upset by a story that appeared earlier in the day which said Bull coach Dick Motta was trying to trade Thurmond for Cleveland center-forward Steve Patterson.

It was rumored that the Bulls were anxious to rid themselves of Thurmond's $350,000 a year salary.

Thurmond came to the Bulls before the 1974 season from Golden State with Cliff Ray going west along with a half million dollars and a No. 1 draft pick.

Hawks ride Arden's hand in big win over Lancers

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

Jim Arden hammered home 23 points and Steve Loughman and Scott Green combined for 30 as the Harper Hawks took the long road back to even their season slate at 1-1 with an 81-75 win over the Lake County Lancers Tuesday night at St. Viator.

The Hawks fell behind 15-13 early in the first half and played on the short end until only 7:33 remained in the game when Loughman, who had 16 points, put a jumper through the hole to give Harper a 62-61 lead.

Even then it wasn't over, though, as the two clubs swapped turns on top four times before Harper took the lead for good at 68-67 on another basket by Loughman.

"I just couldn't be happier winning this one with all the problems we had," said coach Roger Bechtold.

Things started looking bad for Harper event before the game began. Starting center Scott Green landed on a teammates' foot during warmups and twisted his ankle.

"If Scott couldn't have played we really would have been in trouble," Bechtold said. "Even with him, though, we were getting beaten badly on the boards in the first half."

Lake County, sporting a front line of universal jumpers, picked off 20 offensive rebounds in the first half while Harper could recover just two. And behind the shooting of guards Bob Calhoun and Greg Hasty ballooned their control over Harper to 45-37 at the half.

Clahoun, a sophomore from Waukegan who is the brother of Los Angeles Laker Corky Calhoun, took his defender underneath repeatedly and then jumped over him to can 20 points.

Hasty, who later dueled with Harper's Van McLeod for quickest-on-the-floor honors, divided his time between burning his defender for layups or potting away from outside. Hasty totaled 14 points.

"We were a different team in the second half," Bechtold remarked. "We started running our plays and started holding our own on the boards."

Arden fired for a dozen of his points in the second half, putting up his jumper whether wide open or under wraps and hitting nine of 17 for the game.

Wally Butman hit back to back buckets early in the second half to trim Lake County's lead to a pair. Later McLeod, who finished with nine points and a fistful of hot basketballs, stripped Lake County of the ball at midcourt and flew in for the layup to trim the lead to one.

Moments later Loughman fired home the go ahead basket and Harper was enroute to winning their first game of the season a month sooner than they did last year.

"This was a very physical game tonight," Bechtold said, "but I'm glad it turned out this way because we showed we could play that way.

"Everybody played pretty well tonight, I thought. Arden is a fine offensive ballplayer but he needs to develop in other ways. Green moved really well underneath and we'd have been hurting without him."

Harper will play next in the DuPage tournament Friday, Nov. 28 and Saturday Nov. 29.

Three teams make debuts tonight in tourney play

A Herald Staff Report

The final three play tonight.

Elk Grove, Fremd and Rolling Meadows — the only area basketball teams still without actual game competition — take the wraps off their 1975-76 seasons in tournament play.

Elk Grove and Rolling Meadows will host their own round robin tournaments and Fremd will journey to Glenbard West as part of an ambitious Thanskgiving Eve schedule.

Here's the way the three clubs shape up prior to their openers:

ELK GROVE

With one starter returning from a 14-12 season in 1974, the Elk Grove Grenadiers will begin the quest for their fifth consecutive winning campaign when they host their own round robin tournament beginning tonight at 7:00

Lake Park, Addison Trail and Hoffman Estates will provide Bill Parmentier's Grens with plenty of opportunity to see how his four new frontliners are going to react to life in the bigtime.

"Our inexperience is the only thing that worries me," Parmentier said. "We've been working hard to develop a complete team but you just can't tell about new players until they get in a game."

One player Parmentier has no questions about is his son Joe, a quicksilver junior guard who was third in scoring for Elk Grove last year with a 9.1 grade.

"Joe is a year older and a year better," Parmentier said. "He's had some trouble with his ankle this year but he'll be ready to go. I expect a lot out of him."

Parmentier will join senior Mike Behm at guard with senior Mark Sass (6-1) and junior Mark Smith (6-5) at the forwards and 6-4 senior Dave Hornacek at center.

Aside from Parmentier, Hornacek saw more action last season than any other starter and placed fourth in rebounding with just limited playing time. He also averaged 4.6 points a game.

"This will be a typical Elk Grove team," Parmentier asserted with a trace of pride in his voice. "We will be aggressive and play defense.

"We've worked exclusively towards establishing a team game. It is probably one or two kids who will step out and take the leadership role, but we're going to play a team game."

Parmentier is awaiting a face mask for Danny Walters, a 6-2 forward. He had his nose smashed last Christmas, an injury so severe there were doubts about Walters even coming out for the team this year.

"He hasn't played much since then," Parmentier said, "and I've got to hold him out until the mask arrives. He will really help us, though, once he gets ready. He was really coming on last year when he got hurt."

Parmentier is also counting on help from 6-2 Gary Knapik and 5-10 junior guard Mark Evans.

"We've put in some new plans to give the players more freedom and mobility on the court," Parmentier said. "But it will all depend on how the new players react to varsity ball. If they respond like they have in practice we could have a nice team."

ROLLING MEADOWS

The prep version of "California Split" has taken some of the wind out of the Rolling Meadows varsity basketball team's sails, but first-year head coach Bill Weinberg is still blessed with a good-sized, fine-shooting squad.

"We lost both Bill Kiley (6-foot-9) and his brother Kevin (6-7) when they moved to California this summer," Weinberg said.

The split by the giants leaves Weinberg with two returning lettermen — 6-foot-3 guard Dave Bell and 6-4 forward Jerry McGill.

Others slated for duty are senior guards 5-10 Noe Nunez and 6-1 Ken Breitbeil, forwards 6-3 John Carbery, 6-6 Steve Duffy and 6-3 Terry Moran and pivotmen 6-4 Rob Soderholm and 6-7 Bill Wissen.

Juniors vying for an opening are 6-0 Bob Rose, 6-0 Sam DeMarie and 6-2 Jeff Schrock. As sophomores, the trio helped forge a splendid 18-2 record while this year's senior crop went 11-2 on the jayvee level.

"I've seen them play for three years now," said Weinberg, who coached both the sophomores and the junior varsity before succeeding Ken Arneson as head coach this season.

"We need to see some strange faces," Weinberg said referring to Rolling Meadows' yearning for competition which they will receive tonight against Niles North by hosting their own Thanksgiving Tournament.

"The kids seem well dedicated," Weinberg said. "I think we'll have some muscle under the basket and we'll move pretty well. Bell, Breitbeil and McGill are all fine shooters. Now all we need to gain expeiience is a ball game."

The Mustangs will tangle with Niles North at 8:30 tonight, face Fenton at 8:30 on Friday evening and close with Maine North at 8:30 Saturday night in

CLEVELAND'S Steve Patterson is being rumored in a possible trade for Chicago's Nate Thurmond.

Bulls' tailspin continues; Nate fails to show

Jim Chones scored 23 points as the Cleveland Cavaliers held off a fourth-quarter rally by the Chicago Bulls to earn a 98-94 win Tuesday night at the Chicago Stadium.

The loss was Chicago's ninth in succession, tying a club record.

The Cavaliers had a 16-point lead in the second period but saw it fade in the final period when Tom Boerwinkle put the Bulls ahead 84-83. Consecutive baskets by Campy Russell put the Cavaliers ahead to stay as the Cavs made seven out of 10 free throws in the final two minutes.

Bulls guard Norm Van Lier led all scorers with 28 points.

Cleveland held a 50-39 halftime lead and saw that dwindle to 68-67 after three periods as Chicago outscored Cleveland 28-18 in the third period.

Bear changes: 'Italian Stallion' comes, Cid goes

The Chicago Bears put 31-year-old running back Cid Edwards on waivers Tuesday to make room for running back Johnny the "Italian Stallion" Musso, a former Alabama star who lost his job when the World Football League folded.

The Bears also added Ron Rydalch, a 6-foot-4, 260-pound defensive tackle from the WFL, to their roster and put veteran cornerback Nemiah Wilson, 32, on the injured reserve ist.

Both Musso and Rydalch were expected to make the trip to Green Bay this weekend.

Edwards, plagued by injuries after being traded to the Bears by San Diego in exchange for a draft choice in the off season, gained 73 yards in 27 carries for Chicago this year. He also caught 11 passes for 86 yards a touchdown.

The eight-year pro broke into the NFL with the Cardinals in 1968 and was traded to San Diego after the 1971 season. During his eight years, Edwards played in 97 games and rushed for 3,006 yards. Wilson, an 11-season veteran, had missed three of the Bears' 10 games this season. He is suffering from a back sprain.

The club has seven injured players, five of them standouts, all listed as probable starters for Sunday's game. They include running back Walter Payton and quarterback Gary Huff, who both have knee injuries.

Musso was selected by the Bears in the third round of the 1972 draft but elected to start in the Canadian League. He began the 1975 season with Birmingham of the defunct WFL. Rydalch, a University of Utah product, played with Shreveport in the WFL the past two years. The Bears bought the rights to him, plus a draft pick and running back Mike Adamle from the New York Jets in return for running back Carl Garrett in September.

Olga eyes stage instead of gym

A disenchanted Olga Korbut is "sick and tired" of gymnastics and wants to be an actress.

"I need the love of the public," she said in Moscow this week. Her trainer, Renald Knish, said the Olympic champion does not work hard enough and "does not show the shine of her previous work." He added that she should "think over her attitude toward training and our demands, otherwise she will not get first place at the Montreal Olympiad."

Big comedown for Foreman . . .

Thirteen months ago, George Foreman got $5 million in Kinshasa, Zaire, the night he lost his world heavyweight title to Muhammad Ali on an eighth round knockout. Tonight they will pass the hat at the Concord Hotel, Kiamesha, N.Y., and guests will make contributions to the U.S. Olympic Fund, then watch Foreman fight Jody Ballard in a no-decision bout.

The N.Y. State Athletic Commission has not sanctioned the event, but has no objection to it as an exhibition, since there will be no charge to the spectators who will be hotel guests.

. . . Possible big break for Carter

The New Jersey Parole Board has been asked by Gov. Brendan Byrne to make a recommendation on whether former boxer Rubin "Hurricane" Carter and John Artis should be granted executive clemency, it was announced Tuesday.

Robert Reed, who is personally conducting the investigation into Carter's case, said the application is being "handled as expeditiously as we can."

Three evenings of competition

Cagers keep busy on Thanksgiving

Area high school basketball teams will compete in 10 holiday tournaments this upcoming Thanksgiving weekend, an indication that the November tourney fever is reaching epidemic proportion.

More cage teams than ever are playing in holiday tourneys this year, including three teams that will be opening up their 1975-76 season with tournament contests today.

Rolling Meadows hosts its own four-team round robin tourney as Maine North and Fenton go at it in the 7 p.m. opener and Meadows takes on Niles North in the second game at 8:30. The Mustangs of rookie coach Bill Weinberg are one of three squads that have yet to begin the campaign.

Elk Grove also inaugurates its season tonight by hosting its own four-team tournament. The Grens battle Hoffman Estates in the second game at 8:30 after Lake Park and Addison Trail start the festivities.

Fremd opens the season with a 5:45 p.m. tourney game against Proviso East in the Glenbard West tourney. The Vikings and first-year coach Mo Tharp will join Mid-Suburban North rival Hersey at the Glenbard meet. The Huskies (1-0) face Glenbard West at 7:30 tonight.

Wheeling (1-1) will play Grant in the opener of the Woodstock Invitational at 4 p.m. today. Forest View (0-1) also vies for the Woodstock trophy with a 7:30 lid-lifter against St. Edward of Elgin.

Prospect's Knights will host the first of three rotating sessions in the four-team round robin tourney featuring the Knights, Maine South, Maine West, and New Trier East. Prospect (1-0) meets New Trier East at 8:30 tonight after Maine South and Maine West (0-1) clash at 7 p.m. The round robin continues Friday at New Trier and Saturday at Maine South.

Buffalo Grove (1-1) heads the four-team field in the Mundelein tourney round robin. The Bison tackle Carmel at 8:30. Mundelein meets Warren in the opener.

The tourneys resume Friday.

Two other tournaments will begin Friday. Palatine (0-1) faces Wauconda at 8:30 p.m. in the Lake Zurich round robin, and Schaumburg (1-0) meets Crown at 8 p.m. in the four-team affair at Crown.

St. Viator, one of eight squads playing in the Streator Holiday Tourney, will continue action on Friday after opening Tuesday.

a round-robin event.

FREMD

It's more than just a new season for Fremd High School's basketball team.

Hopes are higher than normal because Viking followers have a new coach, Morris "Mo" Tharp.

Tharp, who coached Zion-Benton to a 72-29 record during a four-year period, has his work cut out for him. Over the past four years, Fremd's record has been 37-60. It's been six years since the last winning record — 13-10.

One of the bigger challenges of the year possibly awaits Tharp and his fairly inexperienced team tonight at the Glenbard West tourney — always powerful Proviso East.

Tharp had hoped to have four lettermen ready to play tonight, but co-captain Paul Stanczak (6-foot-2, 175) will be out of action at least three weeks with a badly sprained ankle.

The remaining trio will be there — co-captain guard Rick Kolze (6-0), 150), center Paul Gillette (6-5, 216) David Mize (5-10, 166). Of his lettermen, the Fremd coach had this to say:

- Gillette — "He's the biggest guy we've got. He moves very well for his size."
- Mize — "He's really a hustler and very much a leaper. He goes over the rim with no problem. He's very durable."
- Kolze — "He's a very fine shooter . . . good quickness."
- Stanczak — "He's really been outstanding for us so far. We've gotten a lot of leadership from him."

As far as starting positions go, Tharp says "everything is still open right now." These are the other non-lettermen he has to pick from.

Craig Rawlins (6-3, 165), junior forward move-in; Greg Schroeder (6-4, 165), junior forward-center; Dale Hallberg (6-2, 180), junior guard; Kerry Field (6-2, 184), junior forward; Rick Ramsey (6-4, 202), junior center; Bill Friskics (5-9, 164), junior guard; Tony Marasco (6-1, 176) junior move-in; and Ron Olsen (6-4, 182), junior.

"Basically, we're inexperienced," said Tharp. "Once we get experience and they get used to me, weRe going to be a good ball club.

"All of us are very enthused. We feel we can have a very good season."

Three Hersey wrestlers win invite crowns

A trio of Hersey wrestlers earned individual titles as the Huskies battled to a runnerup team showing at Libertyville's invitational mat meet.

Addison Trail waltzed off with top honors while claiming five individual championships. Four schools each fielded a pair of lineups for the tourney and Hersey edged out Glenbrook North and the hosting Wildcats to take second place team laurels.

Winning Huskies were Jim Watters at 126 pounds, Brett Benz at 138 and Dan Lococo at 145. Each grappler had to win three straight bouts to earn his title.

Several other members of coach Rick Mann's contingent won consolation titles after dropping their opening bouts: Marty Watters at 119, Bruce Temesy at 145, Rick Dewar at 155, Bob Schachner at 185 and heavyweight Bill Fletcher.

The final team scoring had the Trail Blazers with 105½, Hersey with 62, the Spartans with 61 and Libertyville with 59.

Soccer clinic set

The Hoffman Estates Park District will conduct soccer clinics for 5-6 year old boys and girls on Saturday afternoons under the supervision of Jim Napier. Fundamentals of soccer will be taught and games will be played.

The park district is also accepting applications for older children who would be interested in the spring and fall soccer program. Anyone interested in playing, including adults, may register at the Hoffman Estates Park District office at 650 Higgins Rd., Hoffman Estates. For more information, call 885-7500.

- Kolze — "He's a very fine shooter . . . good quickness."
- Stanczak — "He's really been outstanding for us so far. We've gotten a lot of leadership from him."

As far as starting positions go, Tharp says "everything is still open right now." These are the other nonlettermen he has to pick from.

Craig Rawlins (6-3, 165), junior forward move-in; Greg Schroeder (6-4, 165), junior forward-center; Dale Hallberg (6-2, 180), junior guard; Kerry Field (6-2, 184), junior forward; Rick Ramsey (6-4, 202), junior center; Bill Friskics (5-9, 164), junior guard; Tony Marasco (6-1, 176) junior move-in; and Ron Olsen (6-4, 182), junior.

"Basically, we're inexperienced," said Tharp. "Once we get experience and they get used to me, weRe going to be a good ball club.

"All of us are very enthused. We feel we can have a very good season."

Three Hersey wrestlers win invite crowns

A trio of Hersey wrestlers earned individual titles as the Huskies battled to a runnerup team showing at Libertyville's invitational mat meet.

Addison Trail waltzed off with top honors while claiming five individual championships. Four schools each fielded a pair of lineups for the tourney and Hersey edged out Glenbrook North and the hosting Wildcats to take second place team laurels.

Winning Huskies were Jim Watters at 126 pounds, Brett Benz at 138 and Dan Lococo at 145. Each grappler had to win three straight bouts to earn his title.

Several other members of coach Rick Mann's contingent won consolation titles after dropping their opening bouts: Marty Watters at 119, Bruce Temesy at 145, Rick Dewar at 155, Bob Schachner at 185 and heavyweight Bill Fletcher.

The final team scoring had the Trail Blazers with 105½, Hersey with 62, the Spartans with 61 and Libertyville with 59.

Elk Grove man wins Herald grid contest

Ed Tomashewski

The most recent hopeful to climb on the launch pad is Edward R. Tomashewski of 275 Thorndale in Elk Grove. Tomashewski won the 11th weekly contest by picking all but two of the 20 games correctly and then edging Rick Holan, who also missed just a pair, in the tiebreaker.

"This is just great," Tomashewski said enthusiastically.

Tomashewski will receive an AM radio for his weekly effort and have his name placed into the drawing that will determine the winner to go to the Rose Bowl in Pasadena.

The results for the major college games were as follows: Utah State 28, Colorado State 17; Purdue 9, Indiana 7; Kansas 42, Missouri 24; Ohio State 21, Michigan 14; Minnesota 24, Wisconsin 3; Illinois 28, Northwestern 7; Penn State 7, Pittsburgh 6; Dartmouth 21, Princeton 16; California 48, Stanford 25; Harvard 10, Yale 7.

Record entry for Sunday trial

Rand Park obedience trial —

The Rand Park Dog Training Club's obedience trial to be held Sunday, Nov. 30, has a record entry of over 500. To be held at Elk Grove High School, Arlington Heights Road and Elk Grove Blvd., Elk Grove Village, this will be their 26th annual all breed obedience trial.

Novice, Open, Utility, Graduate Novice, Brace and Versatility classes will b judged starting at 8:30 a.m. Because of an overflow in many of the classes, additional judges have had to be called in to help.

If you are interested in training your dog, here's your chance to watch first hand as owners put their dogs through the various exercises. The general admission for adults will be $1.00 and 50 cents for children under 12.

Westminster K.C. premium lists —

Premium lists and entry blanks for the 100th annual dog show of the Westminster Kennel Club are ready for mailing. The 1976 Westminster will be held on Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 9 and 10, at Madison Square Garden, New York City.

Dogs that have been credited with one or more championship points will be eligible for entry. The total entry will be limited to 3,000 dogs. Entries will close on Jan. 2, 1976, or with the mail that brings the 3,000th entry, whichever comes first.

Premium lists and entry blanks can be obtained from the Foley Dog Show Organization, 2009 Ranstead St., Philadelphia, Pa. 19103.

The breeds in the Sporting, Hound and Toy groups will be benched and judged on Monday and the breeds in the Working, Terrier and Non-Sporting groups will be benched and judged on Tuesday.

Working breeds lead —

As the year comes to a close, it is interesting to note that the final count from 1974 showed the dogs from the Working Group lead the total number of obedience degrees awarded with 4,817 German Shepherds lead the group with 1,625.

Next group was Sporting with 2,300 degrees and leading them were the Golden Retrievers with 592. The Non-Sporting group was third with 1,156, Hound, 493, Terrier, 453, and the Toy group, 315.

It will be interesting to see the final totals from the American Kennel Club for 1975, what with the increased interest and entry in obedience trials.

Barks and Bays —

If you are thinking about Christmas and perhaps a gift for a doggy friend, you might consider giving a copy of the new 15th edition of the Complete Dog Book, the official publication of the America Kennel Club.

Published by the Howell Book House, Inc., New York City, it has 672 pages of information and pictures about dogs.

Selling for $7.95, it is probably the one book which should be a must for dog owners to have.

Fair Lanes holds lead

Fair Lanes increased its first place lead to eight points by taking four points from Ten Pin in the Paddock Junior Classic Traveling League. The high rollers for Fair Lanes were Pat Fiddick's 204-559, Thullen's 543, Harris' 528 and Clemente's 518. Ten Pin was paced by Zent's 212-544, Shaw's 531, Ahlgrim's 527 and Higgins' 502.

Des Plains National Bank barely held onto second place as Beverly Lanes swept their match, 7-0. Ron Leahy led the winners with 550 while Dana Vickers hit 214-555 and Steve Fleming 534 for the Bankers.

Hoffman and Wauconda battled to a 4-3 split with Wauconda taking series by a tissue-paper 2781-2780 edge.

Hoffman was paced by Mark McPherson's 213-528, Steve Triphahn's 504 and Pat Muldowney's 512. Wauconda was headed by Tracy Thompson's 515 and Alex Prydes' 506.

A real whiz

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Byron (Whizzer) White, who became the youngest man ever named to the Supreme Court at the age of 44 in 1962, was the National Football League's Rookie-of-the-Year in 1938. He was a halfback for the Pittsburgh Pirates (later the Steelers) and was paid the then unheard-of-sum of $15,000 for the season in which he led the league in rushing with 567 yards.

Dear Neighbor:

Thanksgiving Day is much more than turkey, cranberry sauce and football games. It is, as the name implies, a day to be thankful and to express thanks.

We at Lincoln Federal would be totally remiss if we did not take this opportunity to thank our neighbors and public officials for the warm-hearted and friendly manner with which they welcomed us to their community. And, for the way people are making us their family financial center.

We are happy that many clubs and organizations have accepted our offer of free meeting rooms. We hope others, too, take the opportunity to enjoy our education display areas and community rooms which Mayor Virginia Hayter has officially designated the Hoffman Estates Cultural Center.

Although our asset stature may soon reach $200 million, we will never forget that "people" have been responsible for that growth. That is why we always want to be "in so many ways, your friendly neighbor."

So, please accept our thanks and best wishes that Thanksgiving at your home will be a happy and memorable one.

Rand Park obedience trial —

The Rand Park Dog Training Club's obedience trial to be held Sunday, Nov. 30, has a record entry of over 500. To be held at Elk Grove High School, Arlington Heights Road and Elk Grove Blvd., Elk Grove Village, this will be their 26th annual all breed obedience trial.

Novice, Open, Utility, Graduate Novice, Brace and Versatility classes will b judged starting at 8:30 a.m. Because of an overflow in many of the classes, additional judges have had to be called in to help.

If you are interested in training your dog, here's your chance to watch first hand as owners put their dogs through the various exercises. The general admission for adults will be $1.00 and 50 cents for children under 12.

Premium lists and entry blanks for the 100th annual dog show of the Westminster Kennel Club are ready for mailing. The 1976 Westminster will be held on Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 9 and 10, at Madison Square Garden, New York City.

Dogs that have been credited with one or more championship points will be eligible for entry. The total entry will be limited to 3,000 dogs. Entries will close on Jan. 2, 1976, or with the mail that brings the 3,000th entry, whichever comes first.

Premium lists and entry blanks can be obtained from the Foley Dog Show Organization, 2009 Ranstead St., Philadelphia, Pa. 19103.

The breeds in the Sporting, Hound and Toy groups will be benched and judged on Monday and the breeds in the Working, Terrier and Non-Sporting groups will be benched and judged on Tuesday.

Working breeds lead —

As the year comes to a close, it is interesting to note that the final count from 1974 showed the dogs from the Working Group lead the total number of obedience degrees awarded with 4,817 German Shepherds lead the group with 1,625.

Next group was Sporting with 2,300 degrees and leading them were the Golden Retrievers with 592. The Non-Sporting group was third with 1,156, Hound, 493, Terrier, 453, and the Toy group, 315.

It will be interesting to see the final totals from the American Kennel Club for 1975, what with the increased interest and entry in obedience trials.

Barks and Bays —

If you are thinking about Christmas and perhaps a gift for a doggy friend, you might consider giving a copy of the new 15th edition of the Complete Dog Book, the official publication of the America Kennel Club.

Published by the Howell Book House, Inc., New York City, it has 672 pages of information and pictures about dogs.

Selling for $7.95, it is probably the one book which should be a must for dog owners to have.

A real whiz

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Byron (Whizzer) White, who became the youngest man ever named to the Supreme Court at the age of 44 in 1962, was the National Football League's Rookie-of-the-Year in 1938. He was a halfback for the Pittsburgh Pirates (later the Steelers) and was paid the then unheard-of-sum of $15,000 for the season in which he led the league in rushing with 567 yards.

Dear Neighbor:

Thanksgiving Day is much more than turkey, cranberry sauce and football games. It is, as the name implies, a day to be thankful and to express thanks.

We at Lincoln Federal would be totally remiss if we did not take this opportunity to thank our neighbors and public officials for the warm-hearted and friendly manner with which they welcomed us to their community. And, for the way people are making us their family financial center.

We are happy that many clubs and organizations have accepted our offer of free meeting rooms. We hope others, too, take the opportunity to enjoy our education display areas and community rooms which Mayor Virginia Hayter has officially designated the Hoffman Estates Cultural Center.

Although our asset stature may soon reach $200 million, we will never forget that "people" have been responsible for that growth. That is why we always want to be "in so many ways, your friendly neighbor."

So, please accept our thanks and best wishes that Thanksgiving at your home will be a happy and memorable one.

Cordially,

Thomas A. Kinst
